XLV of 1860.

(b) that offences against section 395 or section 400 of the same Code or thefts of cattle are commonly committed in any tract of country by a member or members of a clan, and that the members of the clan are combined to withhold information in their possession which might lead to the detection of the offender or offenders,

(7) When an assessment has been confirmed under sub-section (6) the amount assessed shall be recoverable, under the warrant of the District Magistrate, in the manner provided by sections 386 and 387 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, for the recovery of fines. X

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE principal object of this Bill is to provide for the more effectual surveillance of habitual offenders, and thereby to enable the police to control and check their movements. In this respect it is founded on the model of section 8 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict., c. 112), which is believed to have been attended with excellent results.

2. Taken in detail, its provisions may be classified under four heads :—

(1) the improvement of the law relating to security for good behaviour (sections 2 to 4);

(2) the surveillance of convicted persons judicially declared to be habitual offenders (sections 5 to 15);

(3) the modification of the procedure for the trial and adequate punishment of habitual offenders (sections 16 to 18);

(4) the repression of certain offences against property by the assessment of compensation in the localities where they occur (section 19).

3. Section 2.—Magistrates are authorised to require security for good behaviour from persons who (i) habitually protect or harbour thieves or aid in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, or (ii) habitually commit mischief, or (iii) are of a character so desperate and dangerous as to render their being at large without security hazardous to the community.

4. Sections 3 and 4.—Magistrates are empowered to order police surveillance for any term up to three years in lieu of requiring security for good behaviour.

5. Sections 5 to 15.—Sections 6 to 15 contain provisions for the surveillance of persons who have been declared under section 5 to be "habitual offenders." Two convictions under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code are essential; and it is further necessary before such a declaration can be made that the Court or Magistrate shall be satisfied on the evidence that the accused habitually commits crime or depends on crime as a means of livelihood.

The maximum period of police surveillance is, as in the English Act, seven years from the date of the expiration of the substantive sentence; and such orders have been made subject to appeal and revision as if they formed part of the substantive sentence to which they are attached.

Magistrates are empowered to accept security for good behaviour in lieu of police surveillance, and to cancel orders for surveillance when this can safely be done.

6. Section 16.—The only modification which has been made in the procedure for the trial of habitual offenders is the amendment of section 348 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, on the lines of section 349. Section 348 provides that, when a person who has been convicted of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Penal Code is again accused of any such offence, he shall ordinarily, if the Magistrate before whom he is accused considers him to be an habitual offender, be committed to the Court of Session. Section 16 of the Bill authorizes the Magistrate in such cases to take cognizance of the offence himself and to enter a conviction and refer the case to the Court of Session for sentence, the Court of Session being at liberty to make or direct such further enquiry as it may think fit.

7. Section 19.—This section contains provisions for the repression of offences against property in cases in which they can be traced to a particular locality but the offenders cannot be identified owing to a combination of the inhabitants to withhold information which would lead to their detection. In such cases the Magistrate has been empowered to assess compensation on the residents of the locality generally, excluding any persons or classes of persons whom he finds to be clearly innocent of complicity with the offence.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th January, 1893:—

NO. 4 OF 1893.

A Bill to extend the provisions of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891, to the Books of Post Offices carrying on Savings Bank or Money Order Business.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the provisions of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891, to the books of post offices carrying on savings bank or money order business; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1893; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Addition to definition of "bank" and "banker" in section 2, sub-section (2), of Act XVIII of 1891.

2. After clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 2 of the said Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891, the following clause shall be added, namely:— XVIII of 1891.

"(c) any post office carrying on savings bank or money order business in respect of such business."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to extend the provisions of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act (XVIII of 1891) to the books of post offices carrying on savings bank or money order business. The Select Committee on the Bill which afterwards became Act XVIII of 1891 considered that these books were public documents within the meaning of section 74 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, and covered therefore by section 65 of that Act, and accordingly did not recommend their inclusion in the Bill before them. It has, however, been brought to the notice of Government by the Director General of the Post Office that, without questioning the correctness of the view of the law taken by the Select Committee, there are practical advantages in bringing these books expressly under the Act of 1891 rather than relying on the Evidence Act, and, in order to secure these advantages, the present Bill has, at his request, been prepared.

The 11th January, 1893.

"Every such addition or deduction from the term of any contract shall be certified by such Inspector or Magistrate on the back of both the employer's and the labourer's copies of the contract, or, if the same be not forthcoming, by writing under the Inspector or Magistrate's hand, copies of which shall be delivered to the employer and the labourer.

J.—Repatriation of Labourers and others.

Repatriation of labourers whose contract is determined under section 122.

"142B. If any labourer, not being a native of the labour-districts, whose contract is determined under section 122, desires to be sent back to his native district, the Inspector may, instead of awarding a sum as receivable by such labourer from his employer, as provided by that section, order the employer to deposit such amount, whether in excess of the three months' wages awardable under that section or otherwise, as shall, in the Inspector's opinion, be sufficient to cover the entire expenses of sending the labourer to such district. Such amount shall be deposited by the employer in the Inspector's office and shall be expended by the Inspector in sending the labourer back to his native district.

"On failure of the employer to deposit such amount within twenty-four hours in accordance with any such order, the Inspector may pay the same, and any amount so paid shall be recoverable from the employer as if it were an arrear of wages.

Repatriation of immigrants not under contract who are physically incapacitated.

"142C. If any person, being a native of India but not being a native of the labour-districts, or not being a labourer, has no means of subsistence and is, in the opinion of the Inspector or Magistrate, permanently incapacitated from earning his livelihood in a labour-district, the Inspector or Magistrate may, on the application of such person, send him back to his native district, and may, subject to the control of the Local Government, charge the expenses incurred in so doing to the Inland Labour Transport Fund.

Repatriation of labourers wrongfully recruited.

"142D. Subject to any orders which the Local Government may issue in this behalf, the Inspector or Magistrate may send back to his native district any labourer, together with his dependents (if any), whose contract has been cancelled under section 111A, 111B or 140A on the ground of coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake, or of any irregularity in connection with his recruitment or the execution of his contract, and may recover, as if it were an arrear of wages, from the employer on whose estate such labourer was under contract to labour, the whole or any part of the expenses incurred in so sending him back.

Repatriation of persons not under contract wrongfully recruited.

142E. If it appears to the Inspector or Magistrate, on complaint made before him or otherwise, that there is reason to suppose that any native of India, not being a labourer, has been induced by any coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake to emigrate to a labour-district, the Inspector or Magistrate shall call upon the employer on whose behalf such person was made or induced to emigrate, or to whose estate he is being or has been conveyed, or, if the employer cannot be communicated with without undue delay, upon his agent or any one accompanying such person or conveying him to any labour-district or estate, to appear before the Inspector or Magistrate and show cause why such person should not be sent back to his native district.

"If the Inspector or Magistrate is of opinion after such enquiry as he thinks sufficient that such person was engaged or compelled or induced to emigrate by any such coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake as would justify his being sent back to his native district, the Inspector or Magistrate shall record a finding to this effect and shall send such person, if he so desires, together with any other persons dependent on him (if any), back to his native district

"Subject to any orders which the Local Government may issue in this behalf, the whole or any part of the amount expended in sending a person back to his native district under this section may be recovered as if it were an arrear of wages from the employer on whose behalf such person was induced to emigrate or to whose estate he was being or had been conveyed; or if the employer is not known, or if there is no such employer, by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the person accompanying such person or conveying him to any labour-district or estate.

Arrangements may be made for escorting persons ordered to be repatriated.

"142F. In any case in which a labourer or other person is sent back to his native district under the provisions of section 142D or section 142E, the Inspector or Magistrate may provide an escort or make such other arrangements as may appear to him to be necessary for ensuring that such labourer or person is actually conveyed to such district. Any expenditure incurred in providing such escort or making such arrangements may be recovered as part of the amount expended in sending such labourer or other person back to his native district."

Amendment of sections 143 and 145.

26. To section 143 of the said Act the words "In addition to any other power to make rules conferred by this Act" shall be prefixed; and in section 145 of the said Act for the word "hereunder" the words "under this Act" shall be substituted.

He shall also, when the labourer has been sent to him by the police, either forward the labourer to, or take security for his appearance before, such Magistrate.

"On receipt of such statements and report, the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such estate lies may, after making such inquiry as he considers desirable into the case, pass such order in accordance with law as he thinks proper. For the purpose of any such inquiry such Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, in any case in which the labourer arrested has not been sent to, or appeared before, him require the labourer to appear before him."

Repeal of Act XXII of 1891.

36. Act XXII of 1891 (an Act to extend the Inland Emigration Act, 1882,) is hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN this Bill it is proposed to incorporate Act XXII of 1891 (an Act to extend the Inland Emigration Act, 1882,) with the Inland Emigration Act, and to amend the latter Act in accordance with the decisions arrived at by the Government of India and the Secretary of State in the correspondence marginally noted, which has been communicated to the public. The chief objects with which these amendments are proposed are, first, to prevent and remedy abuses in the system of recruiting labourers and other emigrants for employment on estates in the labour-districts; secondly, to strengthen the control of the local Administration over unhealthy estates and to enable the local authorities more readily to enforce sanitary improvements on them; and, thirdly, to restrict, as far as may be practicable, consistently with the interests of the tea industry and the present conditions of labour emigration, the operation of the penal contract system sanctioned by the Act.

Letter to the Government of Bengal, No. 2059—19, dated the 5th October, 1891.
Despatch from the Secretary of State, No. 13 (Emigration), dated the 11th February, 1892.

Letter to the Chief Commissioner, of Assam, No. 1071—7, dated the 20th May, 1892.
Letter from the Chief Commissioner of Assam, No. 3020 J., dated the 12th August, 1892.
Letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 270 T. G., dated the 4th October, 1892.

2. The amendments proposed in section 2 of the Bill are necessitated by the incorporation of Act XXII of 1891 with the Inland Emigration Act, 1882.

The title of the Act has also been altered to "the Assam Labour and Emigration Act," as the Act regulates, not only the conditions of emigration, but also those under which the labour-system is carried out.

3. The object of sub-section (1) of section 3 of the Bill is to exclude from the list of labour-districts the districts of Chittagong and the Chittagong Hill Tracts, which have been withdrawn by the Local Government from the provisions of the Act relating to labour-districts, and the Khasi Hills District, where those provisions are no longer required.

The amendments proposed in sub-section (2) of this section are necessitated by the above changes and by the incorporation of Act XXII of 1891 with the Inland Emigration Act, 1882.

4. Sections 4 and 5 of the Bill give effect to the proposals made by the late Chief Commissioner of Assam, Mr. Quinton, and approved by the Secretary of State that power should be reserved to the Local Government to exclude sub-divisions of districts and particular gardens from all or any of the provisions of the Act relating to the labour-districts.

5. By section 7 of the Bill it is proposed to reduce the maximum term of the labour-contract which may be entered into under this Act from five to three years, the recent inquiry into the working of the labour-system having led the Government to the conclusion that contracts for longer periods than three years are not really necessary under present conditions.

6. The object of section 8 of the Bill is to provide that no labourer shall be bound to engage in work involving regular labour underground, such as work in a coal-mine, unless he has specifically contracted to do so.

7. The object of section 9 of the Bill is to supply an omission in the present system and to place at the disposal of an employer a recognized method of ascertaining, before he enters into a labour-contract with a labourer, that the labourer is in a fit state of health and able to reside and labour for hire in a labour-district.

8. In section 11 of the Bill it is proposed to recast sections 111 and 112 of the Inland Emigration Act, and to make the following changes in them :—

(1) to limit the term of a contract entered into under section 111 of the Act to one year;

(2) to limit the term of a contract entered into under section 112 of the Act to three years;

(3) to limit the execution of a contract under section 111 to the actual labour-district in which the contract is to be performed;

(4) to empower the Inspector or Magistrate to require the production before him of any labourer who has executed a contract under section 111 for verification of his contract;

(5) To place on a legal footing the existing arrangements under which labour-contracts are entered into at Dhubri in the presence of the Magistrate or Civil Surgeon by bringing such contracts within the scope of section 112 of the Act, and by empowering the Chief Commissioner to make rules having the force of law for regulating the procedure for the execution of such contracts.

The amendments specified in heads (3), (4) and (5) have been accepted by the Chief Commissioner of Assam, and are, it is reported, generally agreed to by the planting community. The amendments specified in head (2) follow from the change made by section 7 of the Bill. The amendment proposed in head (1) gives effect to the declared policy of the Government to restrict, from time to time, as may be found practicable, the operation of the penal contract system.

9. The object of sections 15 to 20 of the Bill is to strengthen the hands of the Local Administration in dealing with, and enforcing sanitary measures on, unhealthy estates employing contract labourers.

10. The object of section 23 of the Bill is to provide a remedy for cases in which labourers have been fraudulently or illegally recruited or placed on contract by specifically empowering the local Administration to cancel their labour-contracts.

11. The object of section 25 of the Bill (proposed sections 142A to 142F of the Act) is partly to legalize existing practice and partly to provide safeguards against malpractices in recruitment by empowering the local authorities to repatriate to their native districts labourers or other immigrant persons who are either physically incapacitated from earning their livelihood in a labour-district or have been fraudulently or illegally recruited or conveyed to a labour-district, and, in the latter case, to recover the cost of such repatriation from the person at fault or from the employer on whose behalf or to whose estate such persons were induced to emigrate. By section 34 of the Bill local officers have also been empowered, subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner, to pay the cost of repatriation from the Inland Labour Transport Fund.

12. By section 31 of the Bill it is proposed to slightly modify the procedure to be followed on the arrest by the employer or his agent of a labourer who has deserted from service by dispensing with the necessity of producing the labourer before the Magistrate in cases in which he admits the contract and does not desire to be forwarded to a Magistrate.

13. By section 32 of the Bill it is proposed to render periods for which a labourer is sentenced to imprisonment under the ordinary law, and (subject to certain restrictions) periods for which a labourer was absent from service owing to desertion, endorseable on the labour-contract as an addition to the original term thereof.

14. The opportunity has been taken to make certain other modifications and improvements of detail in the provisions of the Act.

The 12th January, 1893.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 24th January 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 21ST OF JANUARY 1893.

At the close of the previous week pressure had fallen continuously and by rather considerable amounts, and had become in defect of the normal by almost a seventh of an inch. So low had the pressure become, therefore, that what almost amounted to a feeble barometric depression existed over Bengal, and with this low pressure unusually high temperature and high humidity with rather clouded skies obtained. On the 15th, or the first day of the present week, a further rather rapid fall of pressure took place over the west of the province, and a moderate fall elsewhere, and the defect increased to nearly a fifth of an inch in the west of Bihár, while over Northern India generally no less than three feeble low pressure areas existed. A fall of temperature had also occurred in Bengal, and it had become below the normal. Pressure again fell by small amounts on the 16th, and it became very uniform over the whole province, while winds became very irregular, and at the eastern stations there was a distinct tendency for moist southerly winds to set in. A wave of comparatively high temperature also began to advance on the 16th over the western half of the province, where a moderate excess was shown, though defects were registered elsewhere. On the 17th, a slight increase of pressure began in Bengal, but a distinct low pressure area still existed over parts of South-West and Central Bengal, while a large low pressure area also was shown over the Central and North-West Provinces; southerly winds were also reported in Orissa, South Bengal, and part of East Bengal, and these brought up considerable amounts of moisture. Temperature also rose rapidly over the remainder of the province and became largely above the normal, the excess equalling about 5° at many stations, so that on this day conditions generally were very abnormal. With these disturbed conditions rather numerous but light rain showers were reported on the 17th from North and South Bihar and parts of Chota Nagpur. On the 18th, pressure had again commenced to fall at all stations, and a distinct low pressure area existed over South and South-East Bengal. Winds, however, were rather less strongly southerly than they were on the previous day and had become decidedly irregular. Rainfall on the 18th had extended and was reported from a considerable part of South-West Bengal, and East Bengal while it continued in parts of Bihar and Chota Nagpur, but the amounts were again small. On the 19th pressure commenced to rise rather rapidly, but it was still nearly a tenth of an inch below the normal, and winds slowly began to resume their north-westerly direction; the excessive temperature also commenced to decrease, and the excess on this day was only equal to about 1° to 3°. The rainfall reported on the 19th was confined to a few showers in South, West, North, and East Bengal. On the 20th a further rapid increase of pressure took place, in some cases exceeding a tenth of an inch, and the distribution of pressure became almost normal, though there was still a defect of about 0·01″ or 0·02″ over a considerable part of the province. Winds had, however, again become rather irregular in direction, and cloud proportion was rather high, but the rainfall was confined to a few showers in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. On the 21st, or the last day of the week, pressure again rose, the increase being largest at the central stations, and pressure became comparatively low in South Bengal, and particularly at Saugor Island and in the north-west angle of the Bay, while winds in South Bengal and Orissa began to shift round to north-easterly and easterly. Rather heavily clouded skies continued to be reported, but practically no rain fell except in Orissa, where at some stations it was rather heavy. A rather rapid fall of temperature had taken place at all except the southern stations, and it was below the normal by 2° to 4° in all districts, except South Bengal and Orissa. Conditions therefore were again disturbed and unsettled at the close of the week.

Practically, therefore, almost throughout the week conditions have been unusual and weather has been distinctly unsettled almost throughout this period. The disturbance has resulted in rainfall in all divisions, but except in Orissa and East Bengal, where moderate amounts of a quarter to half an inch are reported, the falls have been generally light and do not average more than about a tenth of an inch.

Pressure—Has been unusually low almost throughout the week, and the mean pressure for the week has been about a tenth of an inch in defect of the normal; the average defect equalling from 0·09″ to 0·12″, and the defect being generally largest in the west of the province.

Temperature.—The changes of temperature during the week have been unusually large, and the mean of the week for the whole province has been in excess of the normal by 0·7°. The excess has been largest in North Bihar and in East and South-West Bengal, and, on the other hand, slight defects have been registered in Chota Nagpur and North Bengal.

The distribution of temperature for the week in the province generally and its variation from the normal value are clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with their normal values for the period:—

Rainfall.—The heaviest falls have occurred in Orissa, where an average amount of 0·40 inch has been received and where the falls have been largest in the Puri and Cuttack districts. East Bengal has received an average fall of 0·25 inch, and in this division the districts of Chittagong Hill Tracts and Backergunge have received the largest amounts. In Chota Nagpur the falls have averaged 0·15 inch, the Singhbhum district having received the heaviest falls; but in all other divisions the falls have been about a tenth of an inch and less, and the only districts where moderate falls have been received have been Bankura, Pabna, Darjeeling, and Gaya. Compared with the normal, the falls in Orissa and East Bengal have been in distinct excess, but elsewhere they have been in defect.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 21st of January 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the New Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly in the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

≏, dew; =, fog; o, overcast; d, drizzling rain.

IRRIGATION.

The 17th January 1893.

No. 11.—Notification.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes, under the provisions of section XI of Act V (B.C.) of 1864, to pass the following rules in modification of those now in force in the Calcutta Canals and Tolly's Nala from 1st April 1893:—

I.—Every vessel on entering the Calcutta Canals or Tolly's Nala shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the tolls payable; and in case of any reasonable doubt arising, the Canal Officers at any toll-station shall have authority to measure a vessel notwithstanding that it was measured on entering the canal.

II.—The tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V of 1864 (B.L.C.) and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

A.—The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the waterline to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

C.—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore, and Chetla empty for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

E.—In the case of steamers the tonnage, as determined by clauses A, B, C, and D, shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

III.—Every vessel entering the canals shall be furnished with a ticket on payment of the prescribed toll. The manjee's name, the date and hour of entry, the maundage of the vessel, the cargo it contains, and amount of toll charged, shall be entered in this ticket to identify the vessel on which toll has been paid.

IV.—Every person in charge of a boat, raft, or float, who shall pass in the canal without tendering the toll due, or who shall pass out of the canal without delivering to the toll-keeper the ticket of entrance and paying the rent that be due, shall be liable to be detained and punished according to section 10 of Act V of 1864.

V.—This ticket may be demanded and inspected by any Canal Officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose.

VI.—Every person in charge of boats entering the Calcutta Canals from the eastward must tender his toll ticket to the officer at Dhappa and Panspotta pass-stations to have it examined, stamped, and signed; and for those entering from the westward, must deliver up the toll tickets at the above pass-stations and receive in lieu a pass, which pass must be delivered to the toll-keeper at entrance of canals. Every such person must also pay all dues, or be liable to be detained and dealt with according to section 10 of Act V of 1864.

VII.—Every person in charge of a boat found in the canals (westward of the pass-station) with toll tickets unstamped or unsigned by a pass-station-keeper will be detained and treated as having no toll ticket under section 10 of Act V of 1864.

VIII.—The manjee or owner of every vessel not having a ticket on board and producible on demand shall be liable to the provisions of section 10 of the Canals Act.

IX.—Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and date of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the Collector on further payment of a sum equal to the original amount of toll.

X.—During the detention of any vessel under section 9 of these rules, or under any other provision of the Act, the duty of Canal Officers will be to see that the vessel or its cargo are not clandestinely removed; but they are in no way responsible for its safety, for which the manjee, owner, or agent must make their own arrangements.

XI.—The purchaser of a vessel sold under these rules, and under the Act, will have the option of taking it out of the canal on the day of purchase, or of taking out a fresh toll ticket at the rate fixed by the Schedule of Tolls in force for the time being.

XII.—No boat engaged by any officer of Government, whether civil or military, shall be exempt from toll, on the ground that the officer is travelling on public duty. The only exception of this rule shall be in the case of vessels specially engaged in the conveyance of troops on military duty.

XIII.—All vessels the bonâ fide property of Government, or employed on works connected with the maintenance or improvement of the canals, and duly certified as such, shall be exempted from these tolls and charges. No other vessels whatever shall be exempted.

XIV.—Every vessel, raft, or float, which has paid toll, shall be allowed three days for passing through Circular Canals, and two days for Tolly's Nala between Gurreah and Kidderpore, and three days for Soorahs outside Dhappa Lock, the days of entering and of leaving being both included. In addition to these three days, they may, without further payment, remain in the canals for the further undermentioned periods, that is to say—

Circular Canal boats.—One day for every hundred maunds up to three hundred maunds of measurement, and one day for every two hundred maunds above three hundred maunds.

Tolly's Nala boats.—Two days for first hundred maunds, and one day for every hundred maunds above first hundred maunds.

Soorahs outside Dhappa Lock.—Same as for Tolly's Nala.

Floats in either channels.—Two days for any number of timbers not exceeding fifty, and one day for every additional fifty.

Rafts in either channels.—Two days for any number of bamboos not exceeding five hundred, and one day for every additional five hundred.

XV.—Every vessel, raft, or float remaining in any part of the aforesaid canals longer than the period allowed under the foregoing rules shall, for each day in excess of such period, be charged demurrage equal to one-half of the toll; and every vessel remaining more than thirty days in either of the canals shall, for each day in excess of thirty days, be charged demurrage equal to the full rate of toll, provided that in no case the demurrage charged shall exceed Rs. 5 per diem.

XVI.—Any vessel remaining in the canal more than two months without authority from the Supervisor shall be summarily removed.

XVII.—Boats requiring repairs shall be allowed to enter Dhappa Docks and remain there for a maximum period of thirty days, during which they will be charged at the rate of one-sixth part of the demurrage chargeable under Rule XV. Any boat remaining in the docks longer than thirty days without the special permission of the Supervisor shall pay demurrage at the full rate for such excess period.

XVIII.—No vessel shall be docked for repairs on the bank of the Calcutta Canal or of Tolly's Nala.

XIX.—Wherever mooring posts may have been put up by the Supervisor, vessels shall be made fast by the head and stern along the banks to such posts, and shall not be moored in any other manner.

XX.—The Supervisor may by notification prohibit the dropping of anchors or the putting up of bamboos or luggees in any part of the canals or on the banks; and in such parts no anchors shall be dropped, or luggees put up, under a penalty of fifty rupees, and of a fine not exceeding four rupees a day for continued disobedience of an order for removal issued by the Supervisor.

XXI.—Boats whilst loading or unloading in the canals will be allowed to use ladders; but the ladders must be gradually taken in as the water rises.

XXII.—As the water falls, the head and stern ropes must be loosened, and boats gradually pushed towards the centre of the canal: when the flood comes in, these two ropes must be gradually pulled in, and the boat kept as close to the bank as possible.

XXIII.—Only one boat shall be allowed to make fast along and in line with the canal banks, and no boat shall be made fast or be placed outside of boats so secured. No boat or raft shall be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other boats or obstruct the passage of other boats.

XXIV.—Boats passing through the canals shall keep in separate lines, empty boats keeping close to the bank and those that are laden in the centre.

XXV.—Hackeries, carts, bullocks, &c., using the canal roads shall, when stationary, be ranged on the side of the road farthest from the canal bank.

XXVI.—In portions of the canals where only one towing-path exists, vessels shall moor on the off side, and the towing-path side shall always be kept clear.

XXVII.—No persons shall place obstructions on the canal banks, roads, drains, or bridges (when such are on canal land), so as to impede a free passage along them or cause injury to them, or shall commit a nuisance, or deposit filth of any sort on the banks or in the canals.

XXVIII.—Any vessel, vehicle, or any other thing that may cause an obstruction to navigation, or to the banks, roads, drains, and bridges, or injury to the same, will be liable to be immediately removed and detained till all expenses incurred on account of removal, demands, and fines are paid. If a charge be not paid within ten days from date of detention, the said vessel, vehicle, or other thing will be sold to defray expenses.

XXIX.—"Whoever personally or by his or her servant infringes the provisions of any of the paragraphs 18, 19, and 20 to 27, both inclusive, of the foregoing rules, shall be liable, under section II, Act V of 1864 (B.C.), to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50 for any one such infringement, or to a fine not exceeding Rs. 5 a day for a continued infringement."

Vide Notification No. 22, dated 10th January 1882, published in the Calcutta Gazette of 18th January 1882, page 60.

XXX.—At the instance of the Collector of Tolls, any Magistrate who imposes a fine under section 11 or 16 of the Act may award any portion of such fine to the informer.

XXXI.—Any person who wilfully or negligently allows a vessel to sink in the canals shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

XXXII.—In every case of wreck caused by negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor and his subordinates will give every assistance in removing the same.

XXXIII.—A notice shall be affixed on such wreck when recovered, calling on those concerned to pay to the Collector all toll which may be due, or fine which may have been adjudged, as well as the expenses incurred in the recovery or removal of the wreck; and intimating that, if the sum be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the boat and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold, the proceeds of the sale being dealt with as directed in section 9 of the Act.

XXXIV.—Every Canal Officer is authorized to remove any vessel, anchor, pole, or other thing which he may find in a position which is in contravention of these rules, and to deal with it in such a manner as may be necessary to give effect to the rules.

XXXV.—Whenever any laden vessel is seized by a Canal Officer, it shall be the duty of the Supervisor to give immediate notice of the same to the owner or his agent, requiring the removal of the cargo without delay, and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the same.

XXXVI.—If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boat seized under the Canals Act, he shall notify the seizure by advertisement in his office, and in one or more of the Calcutta newspapers or advertisement papers. Such notice shall call upon the owner to cause the immediate removal of the cargo, and to pay any necessary expenses incurred in providing for its proper custody and storage.

XXXVII.—The Supervisor may incur whatever expense he may think necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo of any vessel seized under the Canals Act; and if the cargo be not removed within ten days from the date of seizure, he may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, after giving ten days' notice of the same by advertisement in one or more Calcutta newspapers or advertisement papers and affixed in his office.

XXXVIII.—The money realized at such a sale shall be applied first to defray any expenditure that may have been incurred by the Supervisor on account of the cargo sold, and the balance, if any, shall be held in deposit to be paid to the owner of the said cargo on his applying for the same

XXXIX.—No steamers are allowed to enter the Circular Canal without permission of the Supervisor at Chitpore or Canal Inspector at Dhappa. Steamers are not allowed to tow flats or cargo boats in the Circular Canal, but may tow one flat at a time in the new Canal. Any one infringing this rule is liable to a fine of Rs. 50.

2. A complete list of all the shops for which licenses will be offered and a copy of each form of license are open to general inspection at the office of the Superintendent of Excise Revenue, 24, Daihousie Square, and the number of these shops is not under any circumstances to be increased during the term of three years ending the 31st March 1896, except under the sanction of the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal, in each case. The Superintendent of Excise Revenue, however, reserves to himself the right, in case of combination, or for other cause, to transfer, subject to there being no objection on police grounds, either before or after its settlement, any shop from the site specified in the list, to some other site, provided that the new site, if it is more than 100 yards from the advertised one, does not bring the shop within a quarter of a mile of any other similar shop, the term of whose license is unexpired.

3. It is not at present intended to open any other shop during the term of the license; but the Superintendent of Excise Revenue does not absolutely bind himself in this respect. On special cause shown, and with the sanction of the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal, in each case, the number of shops may be increased: provided, however, that, whenever a new shop is opened, it will be optional to the holder of a similar license for the sale of liquor or drugs, if his shop is within a quarter of a mile of the new shop, to surrender his license without forfeiting his advance, when the Superintendent of Excise Revenue is to re-settle the shop by auction or otherwise.

4. The right of retail sale of the liquors and drugs is to be put up to auction at upset prices sanctioned by the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal.

5. The right of retail sale of the liquors and drugs is to put up to auction in separate lots of one or more shops either in the order specified in the list, or in such other order as the officer conducting the sale may deem fit. When one lot has been sold, the next lot is not to be put up until the sum payable in advance on account of the lot already sold has been actually paid: provided, however, that where the sum payable exceeds Rs. 25, a promissory note may be taken from any respectable and well-known purchaser in lieu of cash payment.

6. The purchasers of the right of retail sale of country spirit, rum, and imported liquors are entitled to sell imported liquors by the glass only, the liquor to be drunk on the premises.

7. The purchasers of the right of retail sale of madak and chandu shall not have the privilege of allowing consumption of the drugs on the premises of the shop.

8. The auction is to be held subject to the following conditions:—

(a) That the Superintendent of Excise Revenue does not bind himself to accept the highest or any bid.

(b) That the settlement with each accepted purchaser will, in Calcutta and the Suburbs, be contingent on the production by him of the usual Police certificate or license, as the case may be, viz.—

For Excise licenses for—
Doasta ...
Rum ...
Imported liquors by glass
Tari ...
Ganja ...
Sudhi ...
Charas ...
Majum ...

} If to be held in Calcutta, a Police certificate in the form prescribed by section 36, Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, must be produced; and if to be held in the Suburbs, a Police certificate in the form prescribed by section 19, Act II (B.C.) of 1866, must be produced.

For Excise licenses for—
Opium ...
Madak ...
Chandu ...

} If to be held in Calcutta, a Police license in the form prescribed by section 39, Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, must be produced; and if to be held in the Suburbs, a Police license in the form prescribed by section 22 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866 must be produced.

(c) That the person accepted as the purchaser is to state in writing, within seven days from the date of settlement, in what building he purposes to open his shop, and is at the same time to submit a plan showing clearly and distinctly what building or portion thereof he desires to be covered by the license, it being understood that the removal of shops to other premises than those named in the list attached to this notification will be contingent on the approval of both the Excise and Police authorities, and that any sum which has been paid as an advance of the license fee under the provisions of clause (d) of these conditions will be returned to any person to whom a license may be subsequently refused for police reasons.

(d) That the term of the license is to be for three years ending the 31st March 1896, and that, except in the case of tari, the license fee for that period is to be paid in advance in the following instalments :—namely, the sum equivalent to the fee for two months at the time of sale, and one month's fee on the date on which the currency of the license commences, and one month's fee on the first day of every succeeding month, until the whole of the fee due on the license shall have been paid. In the case of tari only one month's fee is to be paid in advance at the time of sale, and fifteen days' fee on the date on which the currency of the license commences, and the rest of the fee in half-monthly instalments, viz., on the first and sixteenth day of every month, until the whole of the fee due on the license shall have been paid. This condition is to be strictly enforced in future, and failure to comply with it is to be met by immediate cancelment of the license

(e) That the purchaser is not to be entitled to receive back any portion of his advance in the event of his shop being closed before the expiration of the term of the license on violation of any of the conditions of the license, or his being convicted of a non-bailable criminal offence, or of any offence against the excise laws or rules ; and in the case of the surrender of a license under Act VII (B.C.) of 1878, the licensee is to give fifteen days' previous notice in writing to the Superintendent of Excise Revenue, and pay a sum equal to the license fee for fifteen days, over and above the amounts already paid in advance; and in the case of the surrender of a license under Act I of 1878, the licensee is to give one month's previous notice in writing to the Superintendent of Excise Revenue, and pay such fine not exceeding six months' license fees as the Superintendent of Excise Revenue may adjudge, over and above the amounts already paid in advance.

(f) That the currency of the license is to commence on the 1st April 1893, on which date the purchaser is to open his shop, in all respects prepared for the accommodation of customers, to be certified by an Excise Officer—failure to comply with this condition is to be met by the immediate cancelment of the license, the forfeiture of the deposit, and the levy of the fees for the month, except in the case of delay caused by the non-issue of the Police certificate or Police license, for which a reasonable extension of time may be allowed upon application and cause shown to the Superintendent of Excise Revenue.

(g) That where the amount of the sum payable in advance is required to be paid at once in cash, and the bidder fails to make such payment, the officer conducting the sale is either immediately to put up the lot again for sale, or after the other lots in the list have been disposed of, or he may postpone the sale to such future date as he shall then and there notify ; and the defaulting purchaser is to be debarred from bidding for such lot or for any other lot, and he is not to be allowed to remain in the auction-room ; and that the defaulting purchaser will be liable for any loss that may accrue to Government in case it becomes necessary to re-sell a lot at a lower rate either in consequence of his failure to deposit the sum payable at the time of sale, or to redeem his promissory note on or before 4 P.M. on the day following that on which the note was signed.

(h) That the purchasers are to adhere to all the provisions of the Opium, Excise and Police laws, and of the rules which have been or may from time to time be prescribed by the Board of Revenue.

9. All sales subsequent to the date of the triennial sale in March are to be held subject to the conditions contained in this notification, so far as they may be applicable.

10. Any further information regarding the auction may be had on application at the office of the Superintendent of Excise Revenue.

D. G. BONNERJEA, Superintendent of Excise Revenue,
Calcutta, the Suburbs, Howrah and Bally.

The first five volumes of this work are now ready for issue, and intending subscribers are invited to register their names with theSuperintendent of Government Printing, Calcutta.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 569 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of "O." The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in seven volumes during the current year; but an eighth volume may also be issued consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

The period of registration of subscribers' names having expired on the 1st October, the price will in future be in India Rs. 45 and in England 3 guineas, payable in advance, for the complete set (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made). An extra charge for packing and postage will be made for the set—in India, at 8 annas per volume, and for England, at 2 rupees 6 annas per volume.

For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole sets.

No copies will be issued to non-subscribers till the work is complete, and no single volume will be sold separately.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. For rainfall the normal mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional station district, i.e. from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on for the week ending Saturday, the 28th of January 1893.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

Calcutta, the 31*st January* 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 28TH OF JANUARY 1893.

At the close of the previous week weather was fairly fine and settled in all districts except Orissa, where a local disturbance existed. On the 22nd, or the first day of the week under review, pressure began to fall slowly in all districts, except Orissa and part of South-West Bengal. Disturbed conditions over Orissa, however, still existed, and moderate general rain was reported on this day in this division, and in the neighbouring districts of South-West Bengal. On the 23rd again a rapid fall of pressure occurred in Bengal, except at the eastern stations, but the weather in Orissa had cleared up and practically rainfall was wholly absent from the province. On the 24th a slight to rather rapid increase of pressure took place, the increase being largest in North-East Bengal, while in the west of Bihar and Chota Nagpur pressure was even falling This was succeeded on the 25th by a very rapid fall, the fall in the west and north of the province exceeding a tenth of an inch. These changes were due to the fact that on the 23rd a severe barometric depression or storm had entered North-Western India and was on that day near Jacobabad. On the 24th it had advanced rather rapidly in an easterly direction and was over Rajputana, while a deep secondary depression had appeared near Rawalpindi. On the 25th these depressions had again advanced eastward, and the original depression was shown as a shallow storm over part of the North-West and Central Provinces and the west of Bengal, while the second depression had either advanced along the line of the hills, or perhaps may have merged itself into the primary depression. Hence very rough weather was reported in the hills to the north of Bengal, and at Darjeeling there was almost a gale of wind with snow, while over the greater part of Bengal the sky became almost overcast, and rain was reported on the 25th in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and over parts of North Bengal. On the 26th a further rapid fall of pressure took place over Bengal, the fall over a large part of the province exceeding a tenth of an inch, and the barometric depression had passed over South Bengal and the north and north-west of the Bay, and at such stations as Calcutta, Saugor Island, and False Point there was a defect of almost a fifth of an inch. Hence general, and in many cases rather heavy, rain was reported on the 26th in South-West Bengal, North Bengal, and Chota Nagpur, over a large part of East Bengal and parts of Bihar, but Orissa was to a great extent rainless. On the 27th the barometric depression had again advanced rather rapidly in an easterly direction and was probably over Upper Burma, and pressure had risen quickly over Bengal, the increase ranging up to nearly 0·17″ at Cuttack. With the disappearance of the depression the sky cleared rapidly, rainfall ceased except for a few showers in and near the hills, and weather became again fine and settled, while a steady dry westerly and north-westerly current flowed over the province. On the 28th a further rapid increase of pressure occurred, equalling about a sixth of an inch at the northern stations, and pressure became moderately in excess of the normal, while again a strong north-westerly wind current prevailed over the province.

The principal feature of the weather during the week has therefore been the passage of the barometric depression from North-Western India through the province, which gave general rain on the 25th or 26th instant. In front of this depression the usual large increase of temperature and humidity took place, and in the middle of the week temperature was rather high and above the normal, while the air was exceedingly moist. Immediately, however, the depression had passed away, it was followed by an exceedingly cool wave of air produced to a considerable extent probably by the heavy fall of snow which had occurred in the hills, and thus at the close of the week temperature was largely below the normal, the defect in the mean temperature on the 28th exceeding 10° at such stations as Calcutta, Jessore, Saugor Island, Dacca, Gaya, Hazaribagh, Ranchi, and Cuttack. Hence both the temperature and pressure changes were unusually large during the week.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been in defect of the normal in all districts, the defect ranging from about 0·02″ in parts of North Bengal to about 0·06″ to 0·07″ in the west of the province, the general defect equalling about 0·04″.

Temperature.—The mean temperature for the week has been from 3° to 4° below the normal, the defect being largest in Chota Nagpur, where it has equalled nearly five degrees.

The distribution of temperature for the week and its variation from the normal value are best seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with their normal values for the same period. It will be seen that the largest variations have taken place in the day or maximum temperatures, which in some cases have been 8° and 9° below the normal :—

Rainfall.—The falls in Orissa have averaged nearly an inch, those in Chota Nagpur and North Bihar about two-thirds of an inch, in South-West Bengal about half an inch, in South Bihar a third of an inch, while in East and North Bengal the falls have only been about a quarter of an inch. The fall over the whole province has hence been rather considerably in excess of the normal. In the case of the smaller districts average falls exceeding an inch have occurred in Puri, Cuttack, Darjeeling, and Manbhum, and falls of half to one inch in Balasore, 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Bankura, Birbhum, Murshidabad, Bhagalpur, Darbhanga, Muzaffarpur, Champaran, Saran, Sonthal Parganas, Lohardaga, and Palamau. On the other hand, practically no rain has fallen in Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Noakhali, and Backergunge.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 28th of January 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

IRRIGATION.

The 17th January 1893.

No. 11.—Notification.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes, under the provisions of section XI of Act V (B.C.) of 1864, to pass the following rules in modification of those now in force in the Calcutta Canals and Tolly's Nala from 1st April 1893:—

I.—Every vessel on entering the Calcutta Canals or Tolly's Nala shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the tolls payable; and in case of any reasonable doubt arising, the Canal Officers at any toll-station shall have authority to measure a vessel notwithstanding that it was measured on entering the canal.

II.—The tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V of 1864 (B.L.C.) and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

A.—The product in feet of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the waterline to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

C.—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore, and Chetla empty for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

E.—In the case of steamers the tonnage, as determined by clauses A, B, C, and D, shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

III.—Every vessel entering the canals shall be furnished with a ticket on payment of the prescribed toll. The manjee's name, the date and hour of entry, the maundage of the vessel, the cargo it contains, and amount of toll charged, shall be entered in this ticket to identify the vessel on which toll has been paid.

IV.—Every person in charge of a boat, raft, or float, who shall pass in the canal without tendering the toll due, or who shall pass out of the canal without delivering to the toll-keeper the ticket of entrance and paying the rent that be due, shall be liable to be detained and punished according to section 10 of Act V of 1864.

V.—This ticket may be demanded and inspected by any Canal Officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose.

VI.—Every person in charge of boats entering the Calcutta Canals from the eastward must tender his toll ticket to the officer at Dhappa and Panspotta pass-stations to have it examined, stamped, and signed; and for those entering from the westward, must deliver up the toll tickets at the above pass-stations and receive in lieu a pass, which pass must be delivered to the toll-keeper at entrance of canals. Every such person must also pay all dues, or be liable to be detained and dealt with according to section 10 of Act V of 1864.

VII.—Every person in charge of a boat found in the canals (westward of the pass-station) with toll tickets unstamped or unsigned by a pass-station-keeper will be detained and treated as having no toll ticket under section 10 of Act V of 1864.

VIII.—The manjee or owner of every vessel not having a ticket on board and producible on demand shall be liable to the provisions of section 10 of the Canals Act.

IX.—Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and date of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the Collector on further payment of a sum equal to the original amount of toll.

X.—During the detention of any vessel under section 9 of these rules, or under any other provision of the Act, the duty of Canal Officers will be to see that the vessel or its cargo are not clandestinely removed; but they are in no way responsible for its safety, for which the manjee, owner, or agent must make their own arrangements.

XI.—The purchaser of a vessel sold under these rules, and under the Act, will have the option of taking it out of the canal on the day of purchase, or of taking out a fresh toll ticket at the rate fixed by the Schedule of Tolls in force for the time being.

XII.—No boat engaged by any officer of Government, whether civil or military, shall be exempt from toll, on the ground that the officer is travelling on public duty. The only exception of this rule shall be in the case of vessels specially engaged in the conveyance of troops on military duty.

XIII.—All vessels the bonâ fide property of Government, or employed on works connected with the maintenance or improvement of the canals, and duly certified as such, shall be exempted from these tolls and charges. No other vessels whatever shall be exempted.

XIV.—Every vessel, raft, or float, which has paid toll, shall be allowed three days for passing through Circular Canals, and two days for Tolly's Nala between Gurreah and Kidderpore, and three days for Soorahs outside Dhappa Lock, the days of entering and of leaving being both included. In addition to these periods, they may, without further payment, remain in the canals for the further undermentioned periods, that is to say—

Circular Canal boats.—One day for every hundred maunds up to three hundred maunds of measurement, and one day for every two hundred maunds above three hundred maunds.

Tolly's Nala boats.—Two days for first hundred maunds, and one day for every hundred maunds above first hundred maunds.

Soorahs outside Dhappa Lock.—Same as for Tolly's Nala.

Floats in either channels.—Two days for any number of timbers not exceeding fifty, and one day for every additional fifty.

Rafts in either channels.—Two days for any number of bamboos not exceeding five hundred, and one day for every additional five hundred.

XV.—Every vessel, raft, or float remaining in any part of the aforesaid canals longer than the period allowed under the foregoing rules shall, for each day in excess of such period, be charged demurrage equal to one-half of the toll; and every vessel remaining more than thirty days in either of the canals shall, for each day in excess of thirty days, be charged demurrage equal to the full rate of toll, provided that in no case the demurrage charged shall exceed Rs. 5 per diem.

XVI.—Any vessel remaining in the canal more than two months without authority from the Supervisor shall be summarily removed.

XVII.—Boats requiring repairs shall be allowed to enter Dhappa Docks and remain there for a maximum period of thirty days, during which they will be charged at the rate of one-sixth part of the demurrage chargeable under Rule XV. Any boat remaining in the docks longer than thirty days without the special permission of the Supervisor shall pay demurrage at the full rate for such excess period.

XVIII.—No vessel shall be docked for repairs on the bank of the Calcutta Canal or of Tolly's Nala.

XIX.—Wherever mooring posts may have been put up by the Supervisor, vessels shall be made fast by the head and stern along the banks to such posts, and shall not be moored in any other manner.

XX.—The Supervisor may by notification prohibit the dropping of anchors or the putting up of bamboos or luggees in any part of the canals or on the banks; and in such parts no anchors shall be dropped, or luggees put up, under a penalty of fifty rupees, and of a fine not exceeding four rupees a day for continued disobedience of an order for removal issued by the Supervisor.

XXI.—Boats whilst loading or unloading in the canals will be allowed to use ladders; but the ladders must be gradually taken in as the water rises.

XXII.—As the water falls, the head and stern ropes must be loosened, and boats gradually pushed towards the centre of the canal: when the flood comes in, these two ropes must be gradually pulled in, and the boat kept as close to the bank as possible.

XXIII.—Only one boat shall be allowed to make fast along and in line with the canal banks, and no boat shall be made fast or be placed outside of boats so secured. No boat or raft shall be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other boats or obstruct the passage of other boats.

XXIV.—Boats passing through the canals shall keep in separate lines, empty boats keeping close to the bank and those that are laden in the centre.

XXV.—Hackeries, carts, bullocks, &c., using the canal roads shall, when stationary, be ranged on the side of the road farthest from the canal bank.

XXVI.—In portions of the canals where only one towing-path exists, vessels shall moor on the off side, and the towing-path side shall always be kept clear.

XXVII.—No persons shall place obstructions on the canal banks, roads, drains, or bridges (when such are on canal land), so as to impede a free passage along them or cause injury to them, or shall commit a nuisance, or deposit filth of any sort on the banks or in the canals.

XXVIII.—Any vessel, vehicle, or any other thing that may cause an obstruction to navigation, or to the banks, roads, drains, and bridges, or injury to the same, will be liable to be immediately removed and detained till all expenses incurred on account of removal, demands, and fines are paid. If a charge be not paid within ten days from date of detention, the said vessel, vehicle, or other thing will be sold to defray expenses.

XXIX.—"Whoever personally or by his or her servant infringes the provisions of any of the paragraphs 18, 19, and 20 to 27, both inclusive, of the foregoing rules, shall be liable, under section II, Act V of 1864 (B.C.), to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50 for any one such infringement, or to a fine not exceeding Rs. 5 a day for a continued infringement."

Vide Notification No. 22, dated 16th January 1882, published in the Calcutta Gazette of 18th January 1882, page 60.

XXX.—At the instance of the Collector of Tolls, any Magistrate who imposes a fine under section 11 or 16 of the Act may award any portion of such fine to the informer.

XXXI.—Any person who wilfully or negligently allows a vessel to sink in the canals shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

XXXII.—In every case of wreck caused by negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor and his subordinates will give every assistance in removing the same.

XXXIII.—A notice shall be affixed on such wreck when recovered, calling on those concerned to pay to the Collector all toll which may be due, or fine which may have been adjudged, as well as the expenses incurred in the recovery or removal of the wreck; and intimating that, if the sum be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the boat and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold, the proceeds of the sale being dealt with as directed in section 9 of the Act.

XXXIV.—Every Canal Officer is authorized to remove any vessel, anchor, pole, or other thing which he may find in a position which is in contravention of these rules, and to deal with it in such a manner as may be necessary to give effect to the rules.

XXXV.—Whenever any laden vessel is seized by a Canal Officer, it shall be the duty of the Supervisor to give immediate notice of the same to the owner or his agent, requiring the removal of the cargo without delay, and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the same.

XXXVI.—If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boat seized under the Canals Act, he shall notify the seizure by advertisement in his office, and in one or more of the Calcutta newspapers or advertisement papers. Such notice shall call upon the owner to cause the immediate removal of the cargo, and to pay any necessary expenses incurred in providing for its proper custody and storage.

XXXVII.—The Supervisor may incur whatever expense he may think necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo of any vessel seized under the Canals Act; and if the cargo be not removed within ten days from the date of seizure, he may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, after giving ten days' notice of the same by advertisement in one or more Calcutta newspapers or advertisement papers and affixed in his office.

XXXVIII.—The money realized at such a sale shall be applied first to defray any expenditure that may have been incurred by the Supervisor on account of the cargo sold, and the balance, if any, shall be held in deposit to be paid to the owner of the said cargo on his applying for the same.

XXXIX.—No steamers are allowed to enter the Circular Canal without permission of the Supervisor at Chitpore or Canal Inspector at Dhappa. Steamers are not allowed to tow flats or cargo boats in the Circular Canal, but may tow one flat at a time in the new Canal. Any one infringing this rule is liable to a fine of Rs. 50.

2. A complete list of all the shops for which licenses will be offered and a copy of each form of license are open to general inspection at the office of the Superintendent of Excise Revenue, 24, Dalhousie Square, and the number of these shops is not under any circumstances to be increased during the term of three years ending the 31st March 1896, except under the sanction of the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal, in each case. The Superintendent of Excise Revenue, however, reserves to himself the right, in case of combination, or for other cause, to transfer, subject to there being no objection on police grounds, either before or after its settlement, any shop from the site specified in the list, to some other site, provided that the new site, if it is more than 100 yards from the advertised one, does not bring the shop within a quarter of a mile of any other similar shop, the term of whose license is unexpired.

3. It is not at present intended to open any other shop during the term of the license; but the Superintendent of Excise Revenue does not absolutely bind himself in this respect. On special cause shown, and with the sanction of the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal, in each case, the number of shops may be increased: provided, however, that, whenever a new shop is opened, it will be optional to the holder of a similar license for the sale of liquor or drugs, if his shop is within a quarter of a mile of the new shop, to surrender his license without forfeiting his advance, when the Superintendent of Excise Revenue is to re-settle the shop by auction or otherwise.

4. The right of retail sale of the liquors and drugs is to be put up to auction at upset prices sanctioned by the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal.

5. The right of retail sale of the liquors and drugs is to put up to auction in separate lots of one or more shops either in the order specified in the list, or in such other order as the officer conducting the sale may deem fit. When one lot has been sold, the next lot is not to be put up until the sum payable in advance on account of the lot already sold has been actually paid: provided, however, that where the sum payable exceeds Rs. 25, a promissory note may be taken from any respectable and well-known purchaser in lieu of cash payment.

6. The purchasers of the right of retail sale of country spirit, rum, and imported liquors are entitled to sell imported liquors by the glass only, the liquor to be drunk on the premises.

7. The purchasers of the right of retail sale of madak and chandu shall not have the privilege of allowing consumption of the drugs on the premises of the shop.

8. The auction is to be held subject to the following conditions:—

(a) That the Superintendent of Excise Revenue does not bind himself to accept the highest or any bid.

(b) That the settlement with each accepted purchaser will, in Calcutta and the Suburbs, be contingent on the production by him of the usual Police certificate or license, as the case may be, viz.—

For Excise licenses for—
Doasta ... ...
Rum ... ...
Imported liquors by glass
Tari ... ...
Ganja ... ...
Siddhi ... ...
Charas ... ...
Majum ... ...

If to be held in Calcutta, a Police certificate in the form prescribed by section 36, Act IV (B C.) of 1866, must be produced; and if to be held in the Suburbs, a Police certificate in the form prescribed by section 19, Act II (B.C.) of 1866, must be produced.

For Excise licenses for—
Opium ... ...
Madak ... ...
Chandu ... ...

If to be held in Calcutta, a Police license in the form prescribed by section 39, Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, must be produced; and if to be held in the Suburbs, a Police license in the form prescribed by section 22 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866 must be produced.

(c) That the person accepted as the purchaser is to state in writing, within seven days from the date of settlement, in what building he purposes to open his shop, and is at the same time to submit a plan showing clearly and distinctly what building or portion thereof he desires to be covered by the license, it being understood that the removal of shops to other premises than those named in the list attached to this notification will be contingent on the approval of both the Excise and Police authorities, and that any sum which has been paid as an advance of the license fee under the provisions of clause (d) of these conditions will be returned to any person to whom a license may be subsequently refused for police reasons.

(d) That the term of the license is to be for three years ending the 31st March 1896, and that, except in the case of tari, the license fee for that period is to be paid in advance in the following instalments :—namely, the sum equivalent to the fee for two months at the time of sale, and one month's fee on the date on which the currency of the license commences, and one month's fee on the first day of every succeeding month, until the whole of the fee due on the license shall have been paid. In the case of tari only one month's fee is to be paid in advance at the time of sale, and fifteen days' fee on the date on which the currency of the license commences, and the rest of the fee in half-monthly instalments, viz., on the first and sixteenth day of every month, until the whole of the fee due on the license shall have been paid. This condition is to be strictly enforced in future, and failure to comply with it is to be met by immediate cancelment of the license

(e) That the purchaser is not to be entitled to receive back any portion of his advance in the event of his shop being closed before the expiration of the term of the license on violation of any of the conditions of the license, or his being convicted of a non-bailable criminal offence, or of any offence against the excise laws or rules ; and in the case of the surrender of a license under Act VII (B.C.) of 1878, the licensee is to give fifteen days' previous notice in writing to the Superintendent of Excise Revenue, and pay a sum equal to the license fee for fifteen days, over and above the amounts already paid in advance; and in the case of the surrender of a license under Act I of 1878, the licensee is to give one month's previous notice in writing to the Superintendent of Excise Revenue, and pay such fine not exceeding six months' license fees as the Superintendent of Excise Revenue may adjudge, over and above the amounts already paid in advance.

(f) That the currency of the license is to commence on the 1st April 1893, on which date the purchaser is to open his shop, in all respects prepared for the accommodation of customers, to be certified by an Excise Officer—failure to comply with this condition is to be met by the immediate cancelment of the license, the forfeiture of the deposit, and the levy of the fees for the month, except in the case of delay caused by the non-issue of the Police certificate or Police license, for which a reasonable extension of time may be allowed upon application and cause shown to the Superintendent of Excise Revenue.

(g) That where the amount of the sum payable in advance is required to be paid at once in cash, and the bidder fails to make such payment, the officer conducting the sale is either immediately to put up the lot again for sale, or after the other lots in the list have been disposed of, or he may postpone the sale to such future date as he shall then and there notify ; and the defaulting purchaser is to be debarred from bidding for such lot or for any other lot, and he is not to be allowed to remain in the auction-room; and that the defaulting purchaser will be liable for any loss that may accrue to Government in case it becomes necessary to re-sell a lot at a lower rate either in consequence of his failure to deposit the sum payable at the time of sale, or to redeem his promissory note on or before 4 P.M. on the day following that on which the note was signed.

(h) That the purchasers are to adhere to all the provisions of the Opium, Excise and Police laws, and of the rules which have been or may from time to time be prescribed by the Board of Revenue.

9. All sales subsequent to the date of the triennial sale in March are to be held subject to the conditions contained in this notification, so far as they may be applicable.

10. Any further information regarding the auction may be had on application at the office of the Superintendent of Excise Revenue.

PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them is, by order of the President, published for general information:—

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

WE, the Committee appointed to consider the Bill for the regulation of Warehouses and the maintenance of a Fire-brigade, beg to submit the following report:—

2. After some slight amendments in the wording of the preamble and the clause defining the local extent over which the Act shall apply, we have introduced the following additions and alterations in section 3:—

Definitions of the words "bustee land," "cotton," "jute" and "the Commissioner of Police" have been added. Some verbal changes have been inserted in the definition of the words "Magistrate" and "person", and material alterations and additions have been made in the definition of the word "warehouse." The word "manufacturing", which occurred in the definition as originally drafted, has been struck out, and the list of inflammable articles stored in a building or place defined as a "warehouse" has been considerably enlarged.

3. The Chapter dealing with the important subject of "Funds" has been entirely recast. We were unanimous in the opinion that the Commissioners should be made primarily responsible for the cost of the fire-brigade, and by a majority have decided that the owners or occupiers of warehouses should be liable to contribute, in the shape of license fees, an amount which shall not exceed one-half of the charges. We have therefore retained in the Bill, power to the Commissioners to grant licenses in respect of all buildings and places used as warehouses, subject to the payment of fees and to the proviso that the total amount to be derived from the fees payable for such licenses shall not exceed fifty per cent. of the whole cost of the fire-brigade.

In order to lighten the incidence of this impost, we have limited the annual fee payable in respect of a license to ten per cent. of the annual value of a warehouse, as it is assessed to the payment of municipal taxes, less the outlay which may have been incurred by the owner in providing appliances for preventing or extinguishing fire, and have provided that the amount payable in respect of any single license shall in no instance exceed Rs. 750.

We have further provided that the owner or occupier of adjacent warehouses and the godowns, yards or compounds auxiliary to such warehouses shall not be bound to take out more than one license in respect of such warehouses, godowns, yards and compounds.

We have provided that hay, straw, wood and rags shall be included in the same category as jute and other inflammable articles in respect of which licenses must be obtained, and have repealed section 347 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888, in so far as it entitles the Commissioners to levy special fees on these articles.

We have considered the advisability of bringing baled jute within the provisions of section 26 of the amended Bill, but have determined not to do so.

4. In view of the primary responsibility imposed upon the Commissioners, we have, by section 26 of the amended Bill, while exempting the owners or occupiers of a warehouse licensed under the Bill from further liability, empowered the Commissioners to levy the three following rates:—

(a) a two and-a-half per cent. rate assessed on buildings or places used for the storage of inflammable substances, which the Government may declare liable to the payment of this rate; the amount, however, to be levied in any one case not to exceed Rs. 100;

(b) a half per cent. rate assessed on bustee lands;

(c) a general one-eighth per cent. rate on all houses and lands assessed under the Municipal Acts affecting the municipalities concerned.

We have added a proviso that no lands, houses, buildings or places shall be liable to be assessed to more than one of the above rates.

5. We have made certain alterations in the procedure to be followed in applying for a license; the most important being that the plan to accompany the application shall be drawn to a specified scale, and also show the position of the engines and furnaces to be used in the warehouse, as well as the space reserved for the loading and unloading of carts.

6. We think it desirable that the Commissioners should be compelled to dispose of an application for a license within a reasonable time, and we have therefore added a new section (section 7 of the amended Bill) which, following the analogy of section 237 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888, limits that period to 30 days.

7. Section 7 has been entirely recast. The conditions under which a license may issue are as follow:—

(1) that the warehouse shall at all times be open to the inspection of an officer appointed by the Commissioner of Police. Such officer shall be a member of the Fire-brigade, but shall not be a member of any Police Force:

(2) that the annual fee imposed in respect thereof be paid as in that case made and provided:

and the duty of granting such license is reserved to the Chairman, or with his consent (section 9 of the amended Bill) to a Special Committee of the Commissioners.

8. We have increased the fee payable on a change of occupation of a warehouse to Rs. 5.

9. We have materially altered and enlarged the provisions applicable in cases where a license may be cancelled, one important modification being that the power to cancel a license is now assigned to the Magistrate, instead of being left with the Commissioner of Police. The Magistrate also is now empowered under certain specified circumstances to suspend a license pending the further hearing of a case.

10. The sections dealing with the subject of penalties have been condensed, and the amount of fines imposed has, in most instances, been reduced. We have on the other hand augmented the list of offences to the commission of which the penalty of a fine is attached.

11. Section 19, which relates to the preparation of the annual budget, has been so altered as to make its provisions accord with the scheme for securing the cost of the fire-brigade embodied in the amended Bill.

12. We have assigned to the Local Government the task of distributing the proportionate liability for the cost of the fire-brigade as between the various municipalities on whom such payment is imposed by the Act.

13. We have made a few amendments in section 22 relating to rules and orders; the most important of these being one which authorises the giving of a gratuity to a person who has rendered service to the brigade at a fire.

14. We have omitted, as being ineffectual and useless, the clause in section 23 which prescribes that the damage done by the fire-brigade in the discharge of its duty shall be damage within the meaning of a policy of insurance.

15. We have provided that copies of reports and evidence taken by a Magistrate in relation to the occurrence of a fire shall be furnished to any Fire Assurance Company or person who may desire to procure copies on payment of the usual fee.

16. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended by us, be passed.

CALCUTTA;
The 19th January, 1893.

WE sign this report subject to the following reservations:—

We respectfully dissent from so much of this Bill as imposes taxation upon commercial or other special interests for matters affecting the public good and public convenience, and are of opinion that protection of life and property from fire is as much a public duty as are protection from murder and robbery, sanitary arrangements, maintenance and lighting of roads, and other like matters of general interest to the community, and should, as such, be provided for at the cost of the municipalities concerned. In this view we are opposed to any higher fees being made payable on the issue of licenses than may be found necessary to meet the expenditure incurred in or about the granting of such licenses and the inspection of the warehouses in respect of which such licenses have been granted, and recommend that the cost of the fire-brigade be defrayed by a general rate on the houses and lands comprised in the municipalities benefited thereby.

The owner or occupier of any building or place for which there is in existence at the commencement of this Act a license granted under the Jute Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act of 1872 or 1879, or the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act of 1883, shall, upon application in writing to the Chairman of the Commissioners, be entitled to obtain a license from the Commissioners therefor as a warehouse under this Act, subject to the payment to the Commissioners of such annual fee as is hereinafter provided.

License of new warehouse.

Magistrate may cancel or suspend license.

26. (1) The Commissioners may, for the purpose of further providing the cost of the fire-brigade, levy the following rates:—

(a) a rate not exceeding two and a half per centum on the annual value, as it is assessed to the payment of municipal taxes on any building or place used for the storage of any other inflammable substance or thing not specifically mentioned in clause (9) of section three of this Act, which the Local Government may, by a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, declare to be liable for the payment of such rate:

(2) Such budget shall be laid before the Commissioners at a meeting, and shall be forwarded by them to the Local Government with such remarks as they shall think fit to record; and it shall be within the discretion of the Local

36. (1) In the case of any fire occurring within the area to which this Act applies, the chief officer of the fire-brigade shall ascertain the facts as to the origin and cause of such fire, and shall make a report thereon to the Magistrate having jurisdiction in the place in which such fire shall have occurred; and the said Magistrate, in any case where he may see fit, shall summon witnesses and take evidence in order to the further ascertainment of such facts.

(2) Copies of all reports and of all evidence recorded under this section shall be furnished on application to any Fire Assurance Company or other person interested on payment of the fees payable for the copies of judicial proceedings.

CHAPTER VI.

Penalty for letting off rockets, &c., and selling fireworks without license.

37. (1) Whoever within the area to which this Act applies, or to which it may hereafter be extended, shall let off rockets or send up fire-balloons without a license from the Commissioner of Police, and whoever shall sell fireworks without a license from the Commissioner of Police, for which a yearly fee not exceeding ten rupees shall be payable, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees for every such offence.

LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE-BRIGADE BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton in presenting the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for the regulation of Warehouses and the maintenance of a Fire-brigade said:—

"It will be within the recollection of hon'ble members that this Bill was introduced into Council by the late Sir Henry Harrison, who, as President of the Fire-brigade Committee appointed by the Government, and as Chairman of the Corporation and Commissioner of Police in Calcutta for many years, was peculiarly qualified to advise and guide the Council in its deliberations on this Bill. On his death the charge of this measure devolved on me under the Lieutenant-Governor's orders. I cannot mention the name of my dear and lamented friend without expressing my sense of the extreme loss which the Council has sustained by his death. In all departments of Government administration his loss is deeply felt, but nowhere more than in this Council, where his sound and mature judgment, his persuasive eloquence and distinguished ability in argument and debate were for many years the pride and admiration of his colleagues. I am sure that I echo the sentiments of every member of this Council in paying this tribute of respect to his memory.

"Hon'ble members will observe that the Report of the Select Committee on this Bill is not unanimous. The difference of opinion relates to a question of principle, and I feel it right in presenting the Report of the Committee to detain you for a few moments by explaining the character of the difference between the majority of the Committee and its dissentient members. The dissent is signed by the hon'ble member who represents the Chamber of Commerce in this Council and by the Advocate-General. The ground taken up is that the cost of the fire-brigade, which is maintained for the public good and public convenience, should be borne by the community at large, and not by any particular section of it. This principle so broadly stated has much to commend it. But when more closely pressed, I think the Council will agree with me in recognising that it is a principle which can only be accepted subject to very considerable limitations. It is a fact that in other large cities where a fire-brigade is maintained, it is invariably or nearly invariably the rule to impose the whole burden of taxation for supporting the fire-brigade on the general community. This is the case certainly in the metropolis of England, where the duty of maintaining a fire-brigade rests on the London County Council, who are empowered to impose taxation to support the fire-brigade. No limit is imposed on the rate which may be levied for this purpose. And so in India in large cities like Bombay, there is a three-fourth per cent. rate levied on the population of the city, and in Rangoon also there is a general rate levied on the rate-payers as a body, and this undoubtedly is the course which it would be most easy to adopt in Calcutta. The Select Committee would have saved itself an immense amount of trouble if it had accepted this principle unreservedly and ruled that the whole cost of the fire-brigade should be borne by the rate-payers, and that it should rest on the Municipality to levy a special rate, the proceeds of which would be sufficient to maintain the fire-brigade. This would have been the simplest form of legislation that we could have adopted. But to the majority of the Select Committee this course did not seem to be a fair one. It appeared to us that, in imposing a tax for the maintenance of a particular object, the fair and reasonable principle would be to apportion that tax on different members of the community in proportion to the advantages which it is estimated they will gain from that object. If this principle could have been followed in other cities, I have no doubt it would have been adopted, but it seems that in other cities the difficulty of doing so has been found insuperable. In London, for instance, fires occur more often in residential dwelling-houses and in lodging-houses than they do anywhere else, and the fire-brigade is more largely employed in extinguishing fires which break out in residential dwelling-houses than in extinguishing fires in large warehouses. The chief object of the brigade is to extinguish the numerous fires which break out every day in various parts of that large metropolis. Similarly, in Bombay and especially in Rangoon, residential dwelling-houses are constructed of inflammable materials, and the risk of fire in them is considerable. It has therefore been found impossible to make any fair apportionment in those cities of the amount of rate which should be levied from ordinary citizens and from those engaged in trade or in commercial enterprizes which involve the construction of large warehouses. But in Calcutta the circumstances are very different. It was only twenty years ago since there were no fire-engines in this city. There were merely a few hand engines in use, and the whole establishment maintained did not cost more than Rs. 478 per mensem. About that time the jute business extended rapidly; and as jute is an exceedingly inflammable material, large fires were found to occur in jute warehouses where jute was stored, and the Chamber of Commerce and other public bodies addressed the Government, pointing out the risk run, the great losses sustained, and the necessity of maintaining an efficient fire-brigade to extinguish fires. After due deliberation a law was passed, which established a fire-brigade more or less on its present footing, and imposed the whole burden of maintaining the brigade on the jute industry. This law, subject to minor variations, has remained in force up to the present time, and it is still the case that the fire-brigade in Calcutta is entirely maintained by rates levied from jute warehouses. The Chamber of Commerce have for several years been representing that this is unfair. A Special Committee was appointed to enquire into the whole question, and the result is the preparation of this Bill, which is intended to meet the grievance from which the jute industry undoubtedly suffers.

"In the Report which I now have the honour to lay on the table, we have stated that we think that it is unfair to levy the whole rate on any one industry. At the same time I must distinctly affirm that the fire-brigade was established in Calcutta in order to meet the requirements of the jute trade, and that the great majority of important fires occur, and always have occurred, in jute warehouses. If it were not for these jute warehouses I do not hesitate to say that the maintenance of the fire-brigade on anything like its present scale would be unnecessary. I do not know whether I am justified in saying that this city would be in a position to go back to the state of things which existed twenty years ago, but certain it is that the brigade, in its present state of efficiency and completeness, would not be required. It is on account of the jute warehouses that the brigade is maintained in its present organisation. For these reasons the majority of the Committee considered that the jute industry should still continue to pay a large proportion of the funds required for the maintenance of the fire-brigade. We have added to jute various other commodities which may be described as of a highly inflammable character, and have laid down in the Bill that these commodities shall be kept in warehouses for which a special fee shall be levied and paid to the Municipality. The scale of these fees is indicated in the Bill, and we have imposed as a limit to the total amount to be levied from warehouses the condition that they shall not exceed one-half of the total sum required for maintaining the fire-brigade in any particular year. The most important items added to jute are hay, straw, wood and other things which, under the present municipal law, are liable to special taxation by the Municipality. We have repealed the provision of the Municipal Act, which enables a special tax to be levied on those goods for general purposes. They will now be liable to taxation for a special purpose, namely, the maintenance of the fire-brigade. The reason why they are included is that they are such inflammable materials as in our opinion justify their being placed in the same category as loose jute. The fees from these warehouses will form the bulk of the assets of the Fire-brigade Fund; but the aggregate of them will not be allowed to exceed half of the expenditure required for maintaining the fire-brigade. The remaining half of the assets will be supplied by rates imposed on the general community. We thought it fair that a special rate should be imposed on bustee owners. It is well known to all of you that the number of fires which occur in the clumps of huts in this city, known as bustees, are numerous and a source of great danger to the community. If they spread, no doubt the risk becomes very great indeed, and it is one of the duties of the fire-brigade to prevent these small fires which occur in these huts from spreading over a larger area. The existence of these bustees in a large city like Calcutta is a source of danger, and we consider it fair and reasonable that the owners of these bustees should pay a special rate, which we have limited in the Bill to eight annas per cent. of their assessable value, for the maintenance of the brigade. The remaining sum which may be required for supporting the brigade, will be borne by a general tax imposed on the rate-payers of the town, excluding those who are already called upon to pay either on account of their warehouses or as owners of bustees. This general rate will be a very low one. We have proposed that the maximum shall not exceed one-eighth per cent. on all lands and houses assessed under the Municipal Act. The fairness of this rate lies in this, that the general community are undoubtedly protected by the existence of a fire-brigade. The individual risk which any individual house-owner may run in this city may be infinitesimal. Residential house-owners in Calcutta do not insure their houses, either in the north of the town, where the permanent residents of Calcutta mostly dwell, or in the south, where European residents live, and I believe I am well within the truth in saying that the insurance of houses and furniture in this city is practically unknown. This in itself marks the radical difference between Calcutta and cities elsewhere. Everyone among you who has a house in London knows very well that he insures the value of the house and of the furniture and fixtures and other things in it. This is the invariable rule in London, and it is the invariable rule in Calcutta not to insure. This is the main reason why a general rate is not unfair in London, and why it would be harsh and oppressive in Calcutta. But the circumstances are amply sufficient to justify the Legislature in imposing a very low rate on the rate-payers at large to assist in meeting any deficit which the other means of taxation placed in the hands of the Municipality may fail to supply. The protection which ordinary householders derive from fires not being allowed to spread may be inappreciable in any particular case, but it is obvious that such a general risk exists, and that it is at all times within possibility that fires may break out in residential houses. In order to meet such risk and in recognition of the immunity which the fire-brigade affords to the general public, we have considered it fair that a low rate should be levied.

"These are the main reasons which have actuated the Select Committee in apportioning the taxation, from which the funds for the maintenance of the brigade shall be met, on different classes of the community. We have imposed on the owners of warehouses and places where inflammable goods are stored a heavier burden than we have laid on other persons, but we have largely reduced that burden from what it is under the existing law. It is estimated that the amount to be paid by jute warehouses under the Bill will perhaps be less than one-third of what they now pay, and this will be a very great gain to the jute industry which has, I certainly do think, been unjustly charged with the whole cost for so long a period. Next the owners of bustees will pay their share, and finally a small proportion, which is very small in comparison to the large number of persons interested, will be contributed by the general rate-payer.

"Now, Sir, in making this apportionment we have attempted an extremely difficult task—so difficult that I believe no other city under the British Empire has been able successfully to cope with it. We are making an initial attempt to be fair and just in the imposition of this special taxation for the maintenance of a special department. It is a very easy thing to impose a rate on the general community sufficient to bear the whole cost; it is very easy to single out a particular industry and make it bear the whole burden. But it is very difficult to apportion the cost among different sections of the community in proportion to the benefit which it is estimated they derive. It is this task we have attempted, and I trust that the assistance we shall receive from the members of this Council in considering the detailed clauses of this Bill will enable us to remedy and perfect any defects which may be detected in the measure as it now stands.

"I have prepared, for the information of the Council, two statements which have been circulated and laid before hon'ble members this morning. The first of them shows the estimate of receipts for the current year for the maintenance of the fire-brigade, the whole of which is paid by jute warehouses, and which has been sanctioned by Government under the existing law: the second statement shows the amounts which it is estimated will be borne by fees from warehouses and by special and general rates under the Bill as now framed. Both estimates are calculated to meet an expenditure of about Rs. 60,000 a year for the maintenance of the brigade. The estimate assumes that the jute industry of Calcutta, which now contributes a grand total of Rs. 28,000 for the maintenance of the fire-brigade, will henceforward pay Rs. 8,600 towards that object; that the sum of Rs. 8,000 will be levied from other warehouses in Calcutta; and that the total sum of Rs. 16,500 will be levied from Calcutta on account of warehouses as they are defined in the Bill. It is estimated that a sum of Rs. 25,000 will be levied from Calcutta by means of a special rate on bustees and a general rate. The total contribution from the town of Calcutta would amount then to Rs. 41,600 as against Rs. 28,000 now levied, the increase being entirely from bustee owners and warehouses other than jute warehouses and from the general rate-payers who, we consider, should pay some share of the cost. As regards other municipalities, the amounts they pay would be largely reduced. The sum paid by the Cossipore-Chitpore Municipality, which is entirely from jute at present, is Rs. 33,000, but it would be reduced to Rs. 10,500, that is to say Rs. 10,000 from jute warehouse and Rs. 500 from other warehouses; the Manicktollah Municipality, which pays Rs. 15,000 at present entirely from jute, would pay Rs. 6,000, of which Rs. 500 will be from other warehouses; and Howrah, which pays Rs. 6,250 from jute alone, would be reduced to Rs. 3,000, of which Rs. 200 will be from other warehouses. These estimates, which are put forward on my own authority and by way of illustration only, cannot of course bind the Government or Municipalities concerned, but they will assist hon'ble members in judging of the changed incidence of taxation which is likely to arise if the Bill, as now drafted, is passed.

"I do not wish to detain the Council in regard to any of the minor points contained in the present Bill. The most important is, I suppose, that which lays down that warehouses shall be open to the inspection of an officer appointed by the Commissioner of Police, provided that such officer shall be a member of the fire-brigade, and not a member of any police force. The effect of this provision is that the Inspector of Warehouses will, in future, not be a Municipal Officer, but will be an officer who will work under the orders of the Commissioner of Police. The executive control of the fire-brigade will be left, as it is now, entirely in the hands of the Commissioner of Police, and the funds will, as they are now, be collected by the Municipal Commissioners; only their powers for this purpose will be greatly enlarged and changed. The apportionment of the taxation among the several municipalities interested—Calcutta and the municipalities in its immediate vicinity—is not laid down in the Bill itself, but is left to the Government to decide.

"For the rest the changes are described in the Report of the Select Committee. The intricacies of the Bill are considerable, and I have no doubt that hon'ble members would wish for some time to consider it for themselves, and also to consult their constituents as to how they are affected by the changes proposed. Today, therefore, I intend to merely lay the Report of the Committee on the table. At the next meeting of the Council we shall proceed to consider the Report and to discuss the Bill in its several clauses. It will remain for the President to decide the date on which we shall meet again for this purpose."

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 7th Febuary 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 4TH OF FEBRUARY 1893.

DURING second half of the previous week a low pressure area had passed over the province and had given moderate general rain on the 25th or 26th, and on the 28th of January, or the last day of that week, a rapid increase of pressure, in some cases amounting to 0·18″, had occurred, the rise being largest in the north of the province, and hence the effects of the low pressure area had to a great extent passed away. Indeed on the 28th, pressure had become in excess of the normal by small amounts over a large part of the province. The cold wave of air following in the rear of the depression had also flowed over the province, and on the 28th temperature at many stations was 10° below the normal. Two depressions, however, still existed in North-Western India on the 28th, and one of them had apparently travelled rapidly in an eastward direction, and on the 29th a feeble low pressure area existed over Chota Nagpur and the neighbouring parts of West Bengal. The appearance of this low pressure area was marked by a rapid fall of pressure, the fall exceeding a tenth of an inch at the western stations, and in front of this depression also the usual rapid increase of temperature had taken place, and temperature had risen at many stations by from 3° to 5°, though the day and night temperatures were still largely in defect of the normal, the defects in the maximum or day temperature still ranging up to more than 10° at such stations as Jessore, Cuttack, Burdwan, and Berhampore. The sky on the 29th clouded over slightly, but practically no rain fell. Winds were partly influenced by the depression and were rather irregular in direction. On the 30th the feeble depression had passed away, pressure was rising slowly, and temperature also increased rather rapidly. Winds remained a little irregular, and sky was moderately clouded, but except for one or two very light showers, there was no rain. On the 31st pressure again rose moderately to rapidly, and a cold wave of air following the previous shallow depression commenced to flow over the west of the province, and there was a fall of about 5° in Chota Nagpur and at some of the Bihar stations, while over the remainder of the province temperature was still rising. Winds also became more steady on this day, and they were westerly and north-westerly at the majority of stations. On February 1st weather in Bengal was again fine and settled, and the wave of low temperature had spread over the greater part of the province. There had also been an extremely rapid fall of humidity, equalling about 20 per cent., at some stations, and the air became particularly dry. On the 2nd temperature had again fallen rather rapidly, while humidity had somewhat increased, and on both the 1st and 2nd pressure had risen fairly steadily over the greater part of the province, though the changes were very small, and on the 2nd pressure was in excess of the normal by about 0·03″. A rather rapid fall of pressure again commenced on the 3rd, which continued more slowly on the 4th, and at the end of the week pressure was about 0·03″ to 0·05″ below the normal. On the last two days of the week, on the other hand, temperature was rising slowly, but nevertheless on the 4th, the mean temperature was still in defect of the normal by from 2° to 5°. Winds, however, remained very steady and were westerly and north-westerly at almost all stations.

Pressure.—The pressure changes for the week have been particularly large, but have been of opposite character at different parts of the week. Hence the mean pressure for the week has been very nearly normal, and except in the west of the province, where defects of about 0·01″ to 0·02″ are registered in some cases, the variations as a rule only amount to a few thousandths of an inch. Indeed about two-thirds of the stations register slight defects and one-third slight excess pressure.

Temperature.—Has been unusually low almost throughout the week, and the mean temperature for the province has been 3·3° below the normal. The distribution of temperature for the week and its variation from the normal value are best seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. It will be seen that both day and night temperatures have been largely in defect of the normal :—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 8 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·5° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

II.—The tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V of 1864 (B.L.C.) and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

A.—The product in feet of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the waterline to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore, and Chetla empty for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

E.—In the case of steamers the tonnage, as determined by clauses A, B, C, and D, shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

III.—Every vessel entering the canals shall be furnished with a ticket on payment of the prescribed toll. VIII.—The manjee or owner of every vessel not having a ticket on board and producible on demand shall be liable to the provisions of section 10 of the Canals Act.

IX.—Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and date of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the Collector on further payment of a sum equal to the original amount of toll.

X.—During the detention of any vessel under section 9 of these rules, or under any other provision of the Act, the duty of Canal Officers will be to see that the vessel or its cargo are not clandestinely removed; but they are in no way responsible for its safety, for which the manjee, owner, or agent must make their own arrangements.

XI.—The purchaser of a vessel sold under these rules, and under the Act, will have the option of taking it out of the canal on the day of purchase, or of taking out a fresh toll ticket at the rate fixed by the Schedule of Tolls in force for the time being.

XII.—No boat engaged by any officer of Government, whether civil or military, shall be exempt from toll, on the ground that the officer is travelling on public duty. The only exception of this rule shall be in the case of vessels specially engaged in the conveyance of troops on military duty.

XIII.—All vessels the bonâ fide property of Government, or employed on works connected with the maintenance or improvement of the canals, and duly certified as such, shall be exempted from these tolls and charges. No other vessels whatever shall be exempted.

XXII.—As the water falls, the head and stern ropes must be loosened, and boats gradually pushed towards the centre of the canal: when the flood comes in, these two ropes must be gradually pulled in, and the boat kept as close to the bank as possible.

XXIII.—Only one boat shall be allowed to make fast along and in line with the canal banks, and no boat [illegible] shall be made fast or be placed outside of boats so secured. No boat or raft shall be placed in such [illegible] as to endanger the safety of other boats or obstruct the passage of other boats.

XXVIII.—Any vessel, vehicle, or any other thing that may cause an obstruction to navigation, or to the banks, roads, drains, and bridges, or injury to the same, will be liable to be immediately removed and detained till all expenses incurred on account of removal, demands, and fines are paid. If a charge be not paid within ten days from date of detention, the said vessel, vehicle, or other thing will be sold to defray expenses.

CONDUCT OF MAULVI KABIRUDDIN AHMED AT THE EXTRAORDINARY MEETING OF THE CALCUTTA MADRASA DEBATING CLUB HELD ON THE 16TH OCTOBER 1892.

No. 621, dated Calcutta, the 11th February 1893.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND, Esq., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Genl. & Rev. Depts.,
To—The Officiating Director of Public Instruction.

IN continuation of this office endorsement No. 3620, dated the 14th December 1892, I am directed to forward for your information a copy of a memorandum, No. 5072, dated the 10th February 1893, received from the Principal of the Calcutta Madrasa, submitting for favourable consideration a memorial addressed to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor by Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed, late additional teacher in the Anglo-Persian School Department of the Madrasa, in which the latter expresses his most unqualified regret for his conduct on the occasion of the extraordinary meeting of the Madrasa Debating Club held on the 16th October 1892, and asks for pardon.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the memorialist fully admits the justice of the punishment dealt out to him and all others concerned in this case, and that he solemnly promises in future to be more careful not to offend against the duties of his position. His Honour is glad to see that Maulvi Kabiruddin

Ahmed has recognized the impropriety of his conduct, and he is willing to accept the explanation that the memorialist was led away by excitement on the occasion in question, though this cannot be regarded as a sufficient excuse. It has been ascertained that, apart from this incident, the Maulvi bore a good character, and that he appears to be really penitent for his behaviour. In consideration of these circumstances, and the recommendation of the Principal of the Madrasa, Sir Charles Elliott is pleased to reduce the period of suspension imposed upon Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed by the Resolution of this Government, No. 3619, dated the 14th December 1892, from one year to six months.

3. At the same time the Lieutenant-Governor desires it to be known that he will not tolerate any breach of discipline or good conduct on the part of the officers of the Education Department, or the pupils, and he is anxious that the warning conveyed by the action of Government in this case may be borne in mind, and prevent any similar occurrences. The papers will therefore be published in extenso in the Calcutta Gazette.

No. 5072, dated Calcutta Madrasa, the 10th February 1893.

Memo. by—DR. A. F. R. HOERNLE, Principal, Calcutta Madrassa.

THE enclosed petition of Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed is submitted to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the General Department (in the absence of the Director of Public Instruction, on tour), for favourable consideration, with reference to the orders of the Government of Bengal, in the General Department, Education, No. 3619, dated the 14th December 1892.

To—HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF BENGAL, CALCUTTA.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR—

Your Honour's most obedient and humble servant begs most respectfully to submit that he has deeply felt the sentence of punishment passed upon him and has already undergone suspension for nearly two months.

That the excitement of the occasion had led your Honour's most humble servant to a course of conduct which he now on more mature consideration feels bound to admit was detrimental to good discipline and unjustified in him as a teacher of the Madrasa, and for which he now begs to submit his most unqualified regret.

That your Honour's most obedient servant fully admits the justice of the punishment dealt out to him and all others concerned, including the members of the Madrasa Debating Club, and that it will undoubtedly serve to provide for them a sound lesson for their future conduct and behaviour, and that your Honour's most obedient servant now faithfully and solemnly promises in future to be more careful not to offend against the duties of his position.

That mercy and forgiveness are the two divine attributes of the rulers of a country, and that, as your Honour's most obedient servant's conduct has been justly found blameable, he therefore most humbly hopes that the noble maxim, "To err is human, to forgive divine," be his only source of comfort and consolation.

Your Honour's most obedient servant now begs to tender this most humble apology in the hope that he will be pardoned by the most just and merciful ruler, and as he is in duty bound shall ever fervently pray.

Your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

KABIRUDDIN AHMED,
Teacher, Madrasa.

CALCUTTA, 8th February 1893.

No. 3010, dated Calcutta, the 31st October 1892.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND, Esq., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, General Dept.,
To—The Offg. Director of Public Instruction.

I AM desired by the Lieutenant-Governor to invite your attention to the correspondence printed in column 4 of page 5 of the Hindu Patriot of Thursday, the 27th October, which purports to give an account of an extraordinary meeting of the Madrasa Debating Club, said to have been held on Sunday, the 23rd idem, at No. 7, Waliullah's Lane. If the report of the proceedings as published is correct, it would appear (1) that the use of the Madrasa Debating Club was improperly diverted into a religious and proselytising channel, and (2) that certain members of the Educational Service—viz., a teacher of the Calcutta Madrasa and an Assistant Inspector of Schools—behaved in an improper manner by being concerned with the proceedings reported. I am to request that you will institute an enquiry into the occurrence, and, after obtaining such explanations as you may deem necessary, submit a full report for the information and orders of Government.

No. 8746, dated Calcutta, the 18th November 1892.

From—C. H. TAWNEY, Esq., Offg. Director of Public Instruction, Bengal,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

IN reply to your No. 3010, dated the 31st October 1892, I have the honour to submit copy of a letter No. 4954, dated the 12th November 1892, from Mr. F. Rowe, Officiating Principal of the Calcutta Madrasa, which gives a full report of what took place at the extraordinary meeting of the Madrasa Debating Club held on the 23rd October, so far as the facts can be ascertained. It appears to me that Mr. Rowe's conclusions are so entirely just as to need no comment from me. I myself questioned the Assistant Inspector of Muhammadan Education, Maulvi Abdul Karim, and he gave me substantially the same answer as he appears to have given to Mr. Rowe. If this account is correct, his conduct does not seem deserving of blame. But Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed appears to have been guilty of grave indiscretion.

2. The enclosure of your letter under reply is herewith returned.

No. 4954, dated Calcutta Madrasa, the 12th November 1892.

From—F. J. ROWE, Esq., M.A., Offg. Principal, Calcutta Madrasa,
To—The Offg. Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

IN reply to your No. 8497, dated the 8th November 1892, and received on the 11th idem, asking me for a report on the proceedings of an extraordinary meeting of the Madrasa Debating Society held on the 23rd October, and the conduct of certain members of the Educational Department at that meeting, I have the honour to state as follows.

2. So far as I have been able to ascertain from careful inquiry among several of those who were present at the meeting, the account of the meeting given in the Hindu Patriot of October 27th, upon the strength of which this report is called for, is in some important particulars over-coloured and untrustworthy. The signature of the correspondent is, I believe, a false one. There is but one member of the club called "Abdullah," and he is a boy in the second-year class of the college, and could not, I believe, have composed the letter.

3. The facts regarding the preliminaries of the meeting seem to be briefly the following—

Mr. Lorimer, head-master of the school department, who during the holidays of the College Department was in temporary charge of the office of Principal, was on the 15th October asked by Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed, President of the Madrasa Debating Society, and Wahiduddin Ahmed, both teachers of the Anglo-Persian School Department of the Madrasa, if he would grant the use of the Madrasa hall for an extraordinary meeting of the Society, to be convened to meet a Mr. Webb, a recent convert to Muhammadanism. Mr. Lorimer wrote on the application: "Very well; but please ask the head maulvi if there is any objection." The two applicants then referred to the head maulvi, who answered them: "I have no authority: therefore I cannot say anything regarding any objection," thus declining all responsibility in the matter. Maulvis Kabiruddin Ahmed and Wahiduddin Ahmed appear to have considered this colourless reply of the head maulvi's as sufficient sanction for the use of the hall, and accordingly notices were issued that the meeting would be held there.

4. Mr. Lorimer subsequently learnt that a large number of Muhammadans, not members of the Debating Society, had been asked to attend the meeting, that Mr. Webb was going to give a lecture on the "Principles of Islam," and that several of the leading Muhammadans had refused to preside at the meeting. Mr. Lorimer then very properly, as it seems to me, told Maulvi Kabiruddin that he could not grant the use of the hall, giving as his grounds for refusal—

(1) that the meeting was not strictly one of the Debating Society;
(2) that the reference to the head maulvi had not been properly made;
(3) that the object of the meeting was more or less of a religious character, while questions of a religious or political complexion are expressly excluded from the subjects which the Society may constitutionally discuss.

Mr. Lorimer further expressed his willingness to grant the use of the hall for the meeting if the promoters could procure the written assurance of four or five of the leading members of the Muhammadan community that neither religion nor politics would form a part of the business of the meeting.

5. This assurance was not procured, but a notice was posted on the Madrasa notice board to the effect that as the Madrasa hall could not be conveniently had for the meeting, it would be held at a house in Waliullah's Lane.

6. The meeting was held at that place, and was attended by a large number of students and teachers of the Madrasa, and by others unconnected with the College. Mr. Webb, the convert, gave an address, taking as his subject "Why I became a Mussulman." As might have been expected, there was a good deal in his speech of a polemic character, quite justifying Mr. Lorimer's belief that the subject was not one suited to a meeting of a school debating club, and his consequent refusal of the hall as a meeting place.

7. On the conclusion of the address, Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed, as President of the Debating Society, proposed a vote of thanks to the speaker, and then proceeded to apologise to the audience for the inconvenience they had been put to owing to the change of place of the meeting. The accounts of what he actually said are conflicting. His own report to me states: "The exact wordings of my expression were: I believe the head-master is mistaken in supposing that Mr. Webb being an American could very likely speak something against the Government, and for this and other reasons he withdrew his permission at the eleventh hour to use the Madrasa hall." Other accounts state that he further said that he understood that Mr. Lorimer acted under the instructions of some of the leaders of the Muhammadan community, and that these so-called leaders were doing nothing for the community, but only hankering after titles, medals, &c., and their conduct was shameful. Cries of "Shame! Shame!!" were raised during some parts of his speech, but it is difficult to decide whether these cries were meant to apply to Mr. Lorimer's refusal of the hall, or to the apathy attributed to the "so-called leaders," probably to both.

The vote of thanks to Mr. Webb was seconded by Maulvi Abdul Karim, Assistant Inspector of Muhammadan Education, who according to his own account, when he "heard Kabiruddin speaking so harshly of the head-master and some of the leaders of the Muhammadan community," thought it his duty to contradict him, and did so, attributing Kabiruddin's "severe remarks" to the confusion of his mind under the difficulty in which he had been placed.

8. The above is, I believe, a fairly accurate account of what took place. I may be allowed to add my own impression of the conduct of those principally concerned. I think—

(1) that Mr. Lorimer was quite right in refusing the use of the hall for a meeting of the kind; and that he acted with commendable prudence in the whole affair;

(2) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong, as President of the Debating Society, to have got up or sanctioned a meeting of the Society in which such a subject as conversion from Christianity to Muhammadanism was to be the subject of the main discourse;

(3) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in taking the head maulvi's refusal to commit himself to an objection as equivalent to a sanction of the use of the hall;

(4) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in holding a meeting of the Madrasa Debating Society at all outside the college, especially after Mr. Lorimer had pointed out the objectionable character of the subject for a meeting of the Society;

(5) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in bringing in the name of Mr. Lorimer, his immediate superior, at all in a connexion which could hardly avoid the imputation of blame, before an audience largely composed of Mr. Lorimer's pupils;

(6) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in using at a meeting of the Debating Society expressions regarding the leaders of the Muhammadan community which, to say the least of them, were certain to give just offence.

9. At the same time I believe that the maulvi, who is of a rather excitable temperament, was temporarily carried away by his feelings, and said more than in cooler moments he would approve. There is no want of subordination shown in his general behaviour as a teacher, and Mr Lorimer has no fault to find with him in his work or demeanour.

10. The newspaper enclosed with your letter is herewith returned.

The letters published in the Hindu Patriot, dated the 27th October and 7th November 1892, purporting to give accounts of the meeting of the Calcutta Madrasa Debating Club, held on Sunday, the 16th October 1892.

A letter from the Offg. Director of Public Instruction, No. 8746, dated the 18th November 1892, and its enclosure, from the Officiating Principal of the Madrasa, giving a full report of what occurred at the meeting.

It appears from the information available to Government that Mr. Lorimer, headmaster of the School Department, who, during the holidays of the College Department, was in temporary charge of the office of Principal of the Calcutta Madrasa, was on the 15th October asked by Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed, President of the Madrasa Debating Club, and Wahiduddin Ahmed, both teachers of the Anglo-Persian School Department of the Madrasa, whether he would grant the use of the Madrasa hall for an extraordinary meeting of the Club to be convened to meet a Mr. Webb, a recent convert to Muhammadanism. Mr. Lorimer agreed to the application, provided the Head Maulvi had no objection; but the Head Maulvi said he had no authority, and therefore could not say anything regarding any objection. Maulvis Kabiruddin Ahmed and Wahiduddin Ahmed considered the Head Maulvi's reply as sufficient sanction for the use of the hall, and issued notices that the meeting would be held there. Subsequently, Mr. Lorimer received information that Mr. Webb was going to give a lecture on the Principles of Islam, and therefore declined, for reasons assigned, to grant the use of the hall, but expressed his willingness to do so, provided the promoters of the meeting could procure the written assurance of four or five of the leading members of the Muhammadan community that neither religion nor politics would form a part of the business of the meeting. As this assurance was not given, a notice was posted on the Madrasa notice board to the effect that the Madrasa hall could not conveniently be had for the meeting, so that it would be held at a house in Waliullah's Lane.

2. This meeting was attended by a large number of students and teachers of the Madrasa and by others unconnected with the College. Mr. Webb, the convert, gave an address, taking as his subject "Why I became a Mussalman."

3. On the conclusion of the address, Maulvi Kabiruddin Ahmed, as President of the Debating Club, proposed a vote of thanks to the speaker, and then proceeded to apologise to the audience for the inconvenience they had been put to owing to the change of place of the meeting. The accounts furnished to Government of what took place at the meeting show that the Maulvi made a somewhat inflammatory speech containing reflections both on Mr. Lorimer and the leading Muhammadans. These reflections incited the boys present at the meeting to cries of fie, fie, shame, shame, &c., against both Mr. Lorimer and the leading Muhammadans.

The vote of thanks to Mr. Webb was seconded by Maulvi Abdul Karim, Assistant Inspector of Muhammadan Education, who, when he heard Kabiruddin speaking so harshly of the head-master and some of the leaders of the Muhammadan community, thought it his duty to contradict him, and did so, attributing Kabiruddin's severe remarks to the confusion of his mind under the difficulty in which he had been placed.

4. Mr. Rowe, Officiating Principal of the Calcutta Madrasa, observes—

(1) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong, as President of the Debating Club, in having got up or sanctioned a meeting of the Club in which such a subject as conversion from Christianity to Muhammadanism was to be the subject of the main discourse;

(2) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in taking the Head Maulvi's refusal to commit himself to an objection as equivalent to a sanction of the use of the hall;

(3) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in holding a meeting of the Madrasa Debating Club at all outside the College, especially after Mr. Lorimer had pointed out the objectionable character of the subject for a meeting of the Club;

(4) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in bringing in the name of Mr. Lorimer, his immediate superior, at all in a connexion which could hardly avoid the imputation of blame, before an audience largely composed of Mr. Lorimer's pupils;

(5) that Maulvi Kabiruddin was wrong in using, at a meeting of the Debating Club, expressions regarding the leaders of the Muhammadan community which, to say the least of them, were certain to give just offence.

5. Taking all the circumstances into consideration, the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with Mr. Rowe that Maulvi Kabiruddin is highly to blame in the affair, and directs that he shall be suspended for one year from his temporary appointment as additional master of the Anglo-Persian Department of the Madrasa and from the service of Government in any capacity during that time. His Honour also directs that the censure of Government shall be conveyed to Maulvi Abdul Karim, Assistant Inspector of Muhammadan Education, for assisting at the meeting and countenancing the proceedings by his presence. He should have interfered as soon as the subject of the lecture was known to him, and should have stopped, and not merely contradicted, Maulvi Kabiruddin's improper speech.

The conduct of the members of the Madrasa Debating Club is shown also to have been reprehensible, and the Lieutenant-Governor has had serious doubts whether it should be allowed to continue. He has assured himself by enquiry that the rules of the Club were disregarded when a subject of a religious character was allowed to be introduced, and for this disregard of the rules all the members are to blame. His Honour is therefore pleased to direct that the Madrasa Debating Club be closed during the year 1893, and that, before it is re-opened, its rules are to be submitted to the Director of Public Instruction for approval.

6. Sir Charles Elliott also considers that Mr. Lorimer was greatly to blame for his weakness in agreeing at first to the application for the use of the hall, if the Head Maulvi saw no objection. Mr. Lorimer should have seen at once the impropriety of the whole of the proposal made to him, and should have stopped the delivery of the lecture in any place in connection with the Madrasa Debating Club, and not contented himself with subsequently refusing the use of the hall. An expression of the Lieutenant-Governor's displeasure will be conveyed to Mr. Lorimer for his neglect to take proper responsibility on himself on the occasion under consideration.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

≏, dew; —, fog; o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; t, thunder; p, passing temporary showers.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY 1893.

THE following have been the principal features in the meteorology of January 1893 :—

1. The changes of pressure from day to day have been unusually large, and on two or three periods large defects have been recorded owing to the passage of depressions, so that the mean pressure for the month has been in defect of the normal in all districts, the defect ranging from 0·05″ to 0·06″ at the western stations to 0·03″ to 0·04″ at the south-eastern stations, the general defect of the whole province equalling about 0·045″.

2. The mean temperature has been below the normal by from 1° to 2°, the defects being usually largest in Central, Southern, and Northern Bengal.

3. Humidity has been very decidedly in excess of the normal, the usual excess averaging from 5 to 10 per cent.

4. Cloud proportion has also been in very distinct excess of the normal in all districts.

5. No less than five periods of disturbed weather, connected with the passage of barometric depressions advancing from North-Western India, existed during the month. The first depression advanced from North-Western India at the close of December, the second on the 3rd of January, the third, which consisted of no less than three low pressure areas, advanced on the 15th, the fourth a severe depression on the 23rd, and the fifth a feeble depression on the 28th. All these advanced in an easterly direction and rather largely affected the weather in Bengal, giving a wave of high temperature and humidity in front of the disturbance, low pressure with clouded skies, and in some cases rain during the disturbance and a rapid increase of pressure followed by a wave of cold dry air in the rear of the disturbance.

6. Owing to these numerous disturbances rainfall has been in excess of the normal in all districts except East Bengal, the excess being fairly large in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and North Bihar, and small in all other districts.

The following is a brief summary of the principal meteorological changes during the month :—

At the close of December a very considerable barometric depression crossed the Indus Valley and moved eastward over Rajputana. It continued to travel eastward very rapidly, but also filled up quickly in its advance, and did not reach Bengal as a definite depression, but the wave of high temperature and humidity and the feebly unsettled conditions left after the filling up of the depression with the moderately clouded skies advanced over Bengal from about the 1st of January, and thus very early in the month one or two very light showers were reported in the hills to the north of Bengal. From about the 3rd instant the effects of this depression had passed away, and fine settled weather again obtained in Bengal, but another considerable barometric depression had appeared in North-Western India over Rajputana on this date, and this again advanced rapidly in an easterly direction, gradually filling up in its advance. On the 4th it was near Saugor, and was comparatively slight, but it nevertheless gave rather heavily clouded skies over the western half of the province, and on the 4th and 5th a number of rain showers were reported in Bihar. On the 5th the depression had ceased to have any well-defined existence, but pressure continued to fall over Bengal up to the 7th, on which date a feeble form of low pressure area existed over the west of the province, while readings were comparatively high in North-East Bengal. Accompanying these disturbed conditions, temperature had become about 4° in excess of the normal. The sky had clouded over rapidly, and fairly general rain was reported in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and North Bengal, while showers also occurred in South-West Bengal. The disturbed conditions were confined on the 8th to North Bengal, and pressure was generally rising rapidly. On the 9th pressure had become in excess of the normal, the disturbed conditions had quite disappeared, and a wave of very low temperature following after the low pressure area began to sweep over the province, and by the 10th the general temperature of the province was from 4° to 6° below the normal of the day. These very strongly pronounced cold weather conditions then commenced steadily to disappear; the high pressure slowly gave way until by the 14th it had become about an eighth of an inch below the normal, while the temperature had steadily risen, and it was only about 1° below the normal of the day. A further fall of pressure took place on the 15th, and it became about a fifth of an inch in defect in the western districts, while on the same date no less than three feeble low pressure areas existed over Northern India. On the 16th pressure again fell in Bengal, and owing to the very low pressure, moist southerly winds began to set in at a few stations, while a wave of comparatively high temperature began to advance over the western half of the province. On the 17th a distinct low pressure area still existed over parts of South-West and Central Bengal, while a large low pressure area was shown over the Central and North-West Province; southerly winds were blowing over Orissa, South Bengal, and part of East Bengal, giving very high humidity, while temperature also rose rapidly, and became largely in excess of the normal, the excess equalling about 5° at many stations. With these very abnormal and disturbed conditions, numerous but rather light showers were reported in North and South Bihar and parts of Chota Nagpur. On the 18th the low pressure area existed over South and South-East Bengal, and rainfall had extended to South-West, North and East Bengal, while on the 20th and 21st it had extended to Orissa, and the remainder of the province had become almost rainless. During the 20th and 21st also pressure rose, and the low pressure area wa on the 21st instant apparently in the north-west angle of the Bay, where it continued to give disturbed weather and rain to Orissa on the 22nd, but from the 23rd it had quite disappeared. Fine weather of normal south-east monsoon conditions set in from the 21st and 22nd over the greater part of the province, but it only lasted a short time, for on the 23rd instant a severe barometric depression or storm had entered North-Western India, and was near Jacobabad. On the 24th it had advanced rather rapidly in an easterly direction, and was over Rajputana, while a deep secondary barometric depression had appeared near Rawalpindi. On the 25th these depressions had advanced eastwards, and the original depression existed as a shallow storm over part of the North-West and Central Provinces and the west of Bengal, while the secondary depression had perhaps moved along the line of the hills, for at Darjeeling very rough weather with almost a gale of wind and snow were reported, and on the 25th rain was recorded at almost all stations in North Bengal, and also in North Bihar, South Bihar, and Chota Nagpur, and which extended on the 26th to almost the whole of the province. On the 26th the primary barometric depression had passed over South Bengal and the north and north-west of the Bay, while on the 27th it had again advanced rather rapidly in an easterly direction and was probably over Upper Burma. With the disappearance of the depression pressure rose very rapidly, the sky cleared quickly, rainfall ceased, except for a few showers in and near the hills, and weather became fine and settled, while a steady dry north-westerly and westerly wind commenced to blow again over the province. Immediately the depression had passed away, it was followed by an exceedingly cool wave of air produced to a considerable extent probably by the heavy fall of snow which had occurred in the hills, and on the 28th instant the defect in the mean temperature exceeded 10° at such stations as Calcutta, Jessore, Saugor Island, Dacca, Gaya, Hazaribagh, Ranchi, and Cuttack, while some unusually low minimum temperatures were recorded, the night temperature at Calcutta registering 45·7°, or within seven-tenths of a degree of the lowest temperature ever registered at the Alipore Observatory. On the 28th instant, however, two more barometric depressions had appeared in North-Western India, and by the 29th one of these had apparently travelled rapidly in an easterly direction, and was over Chota Nagpur and the western parts of Bengal, and in front of this depression again the usual rather rapid increase of temperature took place. The depression was, however, very feeble, and only slightly influenced the province on the 29th, and on the 30th and 31st again fine settled weather of unusually strongly pronounced cold season type existed over Bengal, and temperature was still rather largely below the normal, pressure was considerably in excess, and a fairly strong dry westerly and north-westerly wind was blowing over the whole province. Thus there have been no less than five periods of disturbance in Bengal in January due to the passage of depressions from North-Western India, and for a certain part of the month conditions were very disturbed, but on the whole the after-effects of these depressions have been to intensify the ordinary cold season conditions to a considerable extent.

Pressure.—For the first week the pressure variations from day to day were large, but the mean pressure was only 0·01″ to 0·02″ in excess of the normal. In the second week there was a considerable defect registered, amounting to 0·05″ to 0·07″; in the third week the defect had increased, and it averaged about a tenth of an inch, and varied between 0·09″ to 0·12″, the defect being generally largest in the west of the province. In the fourth week this defect had been to a great extent neutralized, and the general defect only equalled 0·04″, and ranged from 0·02″ in North Bengal to 0·06″ to 0·07″ in the west of the province. Hence the mean pressure of the month has been in defect of the normal by from 0·04″ to 0·05″, and the defect has been largest in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, where at several stations it has equalled from 0·05″ to 0·06″, while on the other hand in South-East Bengal it has been from 0·03″ to 0·04″.

Temperature.—The changes of temperature have also been unusually large during the month, but the principal variations have been already discussed. General defects for the month of from 1° to 2° have been reported in Orissa, South-West and North Bengal, Chota Nagpur and Assam, and of nearly 1° in the remaining divisions. The defects on the whole have been largest in the maximum or day temperatures which average nearly 2°, while on the other hand the defects of the night or minimum temperatures only equal about half to one degree.

The actual oscillations and variations of the maximum, minimum, and mean temperature from the normal week by week for the month at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given in the following table:—

Rainfall.—A fall of 1·56 inches has been recorded in Orissa, which is about four times the usual fall; and in North Bihar the fall has slightly exceeded an inch, and is about twice as much as usual. In Chota Nagpur the fall is slightly less than an inch, and is about fifty per cent. more than the normal. Falls of about half an inch have been recorded in South-West Bengal, North Bengal, East Bengal and South Bihar, and are in all cases slightly exceeding the normal amounts.

In the case of the smaller districts Puri has received 2·03 inches; Cuttack, Darjeeling, and Chittagong Hill Tracts nearly two inches; Balasore, Darbhanga, Muzaffarpur, Sarun, Palamau and Manbhum from an inch to an inch and a half; 24-Parganas, Bankura, Birbhum, Purnea, Bhagalpur, Sonthal Parganas, Hazaribagh, and Lohardaga from three quarters to an inch; and Hooghly, Burdwan, Murshidabad, Pabna, Rangpur, Jalpaiguri, Kuch Bihar, Tippera, Mymensingh, Champaran, Shahabad, Gaya, Patna, and Singhbhum falls of half to three quarters of an inch. The smallest falls have been received in Khulna, Chittagong, and Faridpur, where they have been a fifth of an inch and less.

In Assam Sibsagar has received 3·28 inches, Silchar 1·78 inches, and Dhubri 0·53 inch of rain.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 14th February 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 11TH OF FEBRUARY 1893.

DURING the previous week a barometric depression had passed across the province, but it was of feeble nature and had given practically no rainfall. In the rear of the depression, however, the usual wave of cold air had swept over the province, and on the 5th instant, or the first day of the week under review, the mean temperature was in defect of the normal by from about 2° to 4°, pressure was rising moderately to rapidly, and was generally in slight excess of the normal over the northern half of the province and about normal over the southern half, while a steady north-westerly wind prevailed at all except a few stations in the north and north-east of the province. Hence fine settled weather, with generally lightly clouded skies prevailed in all districts and rainfall was quite absent. In North-West India, however, on this date weather was very distinctly disturbed from the existence of two depressions, the primary depression which had entered North-West India on the 4th having advanced over South-West Rajputana and Sind, while a secondary depression existed over the North-West Himalayas, and these depressions were as usual advancing in an easterly direction. On the 6th these depressions had advanced rather slowly and pressure was falling slowly in Bengal, while temperature was rising, particularly at the western stations, where also winds were beginning to show the influence of the depressions and had become southerly in a few cases. On the 7th the depressions had again advanced in an easterly direction and had apparently joined together, and a large shallow barometric depression covered Bengal and the neighbouring parts of the Central Provinces. Hence pressure was again falling moderately, the fall being largest in South-West Bengal and Orissa; temperature had risen very rapidly and had become from 1° to 4° in excess of the normal at all except a few of the eastern and northern stations, while winds generally over Bengal were easterly and south-easterly, forming part of an irregular cyclonic circulation round the depression. At the same time the sky clouded over very rapidly and rain was reported in South-West Bengal, Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and parts of North Bengal. On the 8th the depression had passed over the Bay, and its centre was some little distance to the south of the Sundarbans. With the advance of the depression pressure began to rise in Bengal, especially at the western stations, where in some cases the rise was 0·15″ and 0·16″; temperature, on the other hand, was falling in the rear of the depression, and it had become generally slightly below the normal. Very unsettled weather had therefore prevailed over the whole of Bengal from the 7th to the 8th, and general rain was reported on the 8th over almost the whole province. On the 9th the depression had either passed over Burma or perhaps filled up; pressure continued to rise in Bengal and became nearly a tenth of an inch in excess of the normal, while temperature was in defect by from about 3° to 6° and a steady northerly and north-westerly wind prevailed over the whole province. Hence again the sky became almost cloudless and rainfall ceased. On the 10th pressure continued generally to rise slowly, and the cold wave of air following in the rear of the previous depression had swept over the whole of Bengal and the mean temperature had become below the normal by amounts ranging up to from 8° to 10° at some of the western stations. On the 11th the pressure changes were small and variable, and temperature was increasing, but the mean temperature was still in defect by about 5° to 7°. Hence at the close of the week the cold weather conditions were still strongly developed, fine weather with lightly clouded skies obtained and there was no rainfall reported.

Pressure.—The pressure variations during the week have been large, but on the whole the mean pressure has not been very far removed from the normal. The variations have indeed been a little irregular, and at the majority of stations there has been a slight excess, but defects are reported at two or three stations in the south of the province, while on the other hand excess pressures of 0·03″ and 0·04″ are recorded at some of the stations in North Bihar.

Temperature—Has been unusually low during the week in all districts, and defects of about 4° are reported in Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal. For the whole province the defect in the mean temperature for the week has been 2·8°.

The distribution of temperature for the week and its variation from the normal value are best seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the week. The defect, it will be seen, has been largest in the day or maximum temperatures which have generally been from 5° to 6° below the normal:—

Rainfall —The rainfall during the week has been light, and the heaviest falls have been in South-West Bengal, where they have averaged 0·70 inch. The falls in Orissa, East Bengal, and Chota Nagpur have averaged about four-tenths of an inch, and those in North Bengal and in Bihar about a fifth of an inch. The falls have been in distinct excess of the normal in South-West Bengal, Chota Nagpur, Orissa, and South Bihar, and in slight defect in the other Divisions.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 11th of February 1893:—

IRRIGATION.

The 14th February 1893.

No. 35.—Notification.—The following rules, having reference to all the lines of navigation included in the following canal systems, viz., the Orissa Canals, the Midnapore Canal with branch to Narainghar, the Hijili Tidal Canal, the Orissa Coast Canal, and the Sone Canals, are proposed to be passed by the Lieutenant-Governor under the provisions of section XI of the "Canals Act, 1864," No. V (B.C.), in supersession of those now in force.

1. Every vessel, entering or passing along any of the above lines of navigation, shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of toll the vessel should pay according to the schedule of rates authorized by Government to be charged on the line of navigation.

2. The tonnage of every vessel, except loose timber and raft, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of the "Canals Act, 1864," and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

(a) The product in feet of half the length of the vessel, measured along the water-line and round the contour of the vessel from centre of stem to centre of stern-post, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel or by the greatest breadth of the cargo, should this overhang, or, as in the case of logs, be lashed alongside, multiplied by the greatest depth from the water-line to the bottom of the keel of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

(b) The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting fractions of a foot, and the measurement of the breadth and depth in feet and quarters of feet, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot.

(c) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted

(d) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied on steamers, an allowance of one-third the total maundage as found under clauses a, b, and c is to be made for engine space.

3. Every vessel entering or passing along any of the above lines of navigation shall be furnished with a ticket on paying the prescribed toll. The ticket shall specify the station at which it has been issued, the name of the person in charge of the vessel, the date on which the voyage commenced, the point to which the vessel may proceed on the line of navigation, the maundage of the vessel, the amount of toll charged, the number of days allowed for the voyage, and the date of such last day. The number of days so allowed without additional payment shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every eight miles, or portion of eight miles, to be traversed together with one day for every two hundred maunds of measurement. In the case of rafts, one day for every five miles shall be allowed.

4. Toll may be paid at the first station, either for the entire number of toll-stations on the line of navigation, or for any less number of stations.

5. The tickets thus given may be demanded for inspection by any duly authorised navigation officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose. They must be shown at each toll-station the vessel has to pass, as a passport that no further payment of toll is to be demanded. The tickets shall be delivered up at the last toll-station.

Navigation officers shall have authority to check-measure vessels whenever they consider it necessary, and if the toll due according to the check-measurement exceeds that originally paid, the difference shall be payable at the toll station of check-measurement, or at the next toll-station which the vessel may arrive at, if the check-measurement was made at some point other than a toll-station. The officer collecting the difference shall endorse the ticket, showing the measurements, and noting the amount recovered in excess of the toll originally paid.

6. Owners or hirers of vessels may compound, by the payment of a fixed sum, for the use of the whole or portion of any of the above lines of navigation for any period that may be agreed upon, not exceeding one year. Each vessel so compounded for shall be furnished with a ticket showing the amount of toll paid, the period for which the toll has been compounded for, and the limits of the line of navigation within which the vessel may pass. Such ticket shall be kept on board the vessel, and shall be produced when required under Rule 5, but shall be given up only on the date of the expiry of the period for which granted, and at the station from whence issued.

7. Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and dates of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the officers in charge of toll-stations on payment of a fee of one rupee.

8. Every vessel which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by Rule 3 shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to the full amount of toll as determined by Rule 2. No charge for demurrage under this rule shall exceed rupees ten per month for any boat. The Superintending Engineer may at his discretion exempt any boats on any line of navigation, or any portion of a line of navigation, from the payment required by this rule.

9. The Superintending Engineer in charge of the Circle in which the line of navigation is situated, shall fix such places as he may consider necessary, at which vessels may remain while waiting for cargo or otherwise, without any charge. Any vessel which on the completion of a voyage or on entering the canal remains for a period of 24 hours or more at any place in the line of navigation other than one so fixed, shall be liable to an extra charge per diem as provided in rule 8, which shall be recoverable as toll.

10. The Superintending Engineer in charge of the Circle shall notify at what places on the line of navigation vessels may be ordinarily loaded or unloaded. Permission to load or unload at places other than those so notified, may be granted in special cases by the navigation officers. Should any vessel be loaded or unloaded at any place other than those notified by the Superintending Engineer, and without the permission specified above having been obtained, the person in charge of the vessel and the consignor or consignee of the goods shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10 for each offence.

11. Except with the written permission of a navigation officer, no goods or cargo may be deposited on any bank, berm, or land appertaining to the canal at places other than those notified by the Superintending Engineer of the Circle, as available for such a purpose. Any person depositing goods in contravention of the above rule, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

12. Navigation officers may order consignors, or consignees, or owners to remove their goods from the places notified as available for depositing cargo under rule 11. Goods not finally removed within a period of six days from the receipt of such order, shall be liable to a charge of four annas per 100 maunds, for each day or part of a day after the expiry of the six days, until finally removed.

13. No vessel of dimensions exceeding those which shall be notified for each line of navigation by the Superintending Engineer in charge of the Circle will be allowed to enter such line of navigation or to pass along it.

14. It will not be compulsory for the locks to be opened to single vessels of less than 500 maunds burden, except in the case of mail or despatch boats or passenger or cargo boats in tow of steam vessels; but the locks shall be opened for the passage of boats at least twice a day.

15. Mooring.—All vessels stopping at night must be moored head and stern, to the bank of the channel, or wherever specially ordered.

Only one line of vessels shall be allowed to pass along a canal or to make fast along and in a line with the canal banks or along and in a line with the banks of the river entrances to the locks, and no vessel shall be made fast, or be placed outside of vessels so secured, without the permission of a navigation officer. No vessel shall, however, be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other vessels, to obstruct their passage, or to impede the navigation.

16. Rule of the Road.—When under sail, vessels are to keep in the centre of the channel. When being tracked, vessels are, wherever practicable, to keep to starboard or right side of the channel. Vessels meeting in a canal, except when being tracked, must keep to their right when passing, and when one vessel overtakes another, the former must pass on the left. Vessels, one of which is sailing and the other steaming, meeting in a canal, the sailing vessel to keep to the leeward. A steamer passing any vessel is bound to go at a speed not greater than half speed.

17. Lights and Signals.—All vessels, whether travelling or moored in a line of navigation, must between sunset and sunrise carry a white light, in a lantern on the fore part of the vessel where it can be distinctly seen from ahead. All steam-vessels in motion shall carry the lights prescribed by the Board of Trade Regulations. Barges or boats attached to a steam-vessel, whether in motion or moored, shall carry the white light prescribed above.

Where signals are used no vessel shall enter or attempt to enter the entrance channel of a lock when a red flag or red light is displayed at the end of the lock next her. Steam-vessels approaching a lock shall whistle when a mile distant, and shall continue to whistle at intervals until the signal intimating that the lock is open or closed is displayed, or, if no signals are used, until arrival.

18. Crews and attendants.—Every vessel when stationary shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

19. Fittings.—Vessels must have their masts, high awnings, and funnels fitted so that they can be let down with ease and speed, and no bamboos or poles shall be erected on or by vessels when at anchor.

20. Conduct of navigation.—Vessels are prohibited from making fast to any portion of the lockgates or gearing, and steamers are prohibited from making fast the tow lines of their boats until the latter are clear of the locks. Steamers are prohibited from lashing boats or barges alongside while proceeding within locks. Towing ropes of a greater length than 50 feet are not to be used in a canal. The throwing of cinders into any canal is prohibited; they are to be deposited on the banks.

21. In every case of wreck or obstruction of the channel by sunken vessels, the Supervisor of the line of navigation or of a part of it may call upon the person in charge of the vessel to remove the same without delay, and shall give every reasonable assistance towards so doing. But should the owner of the vessel or raft be not forthcoming, or should he not use reasonable expedition in removing the obstruction, or should he decline or fail to use proper assistance which may be offered to him by the Supervisor, this officer may, under the provisions of section XIV of the Act, undertake the removal of the obstruction himself at the cost of the owner of the boat, recovering the expense in the manner laid down in section IX of the "Canals Act, 1864."

22. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boats seized under the "Canals Act," he shall notify the seizure in the most public manner available.

23. In the event of any damage or injury being occasioned to the canal works by wilfulness or negligence on the part of any person in charge of a vessel, the navigation officers may detain the vessel at any point within the canal for a period not exceeding 48 hours; provided that, within that period, the navigation officers shall lodge a complaint against such person in charge of the vessel before a Magistrate under section XVI of the "Canals Act."

24. For any contravention of rules 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, the person in charge of the vessel shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs 50.

25. All offences against the provisions of these rules shall be punishable as provided for in section XVIII of the "Canals Act, 1864," and all fines imposed may be recovered in the manner mentioned in section XVII of the same Act.

26. The term "navigation officers" as used in the foregoing rules shall include the persons alluded to in section VIII of the "Canals Act, 1864," and all Public Works Officers or Subordinates in charge of the canal not below the grade of sub-overseer.

27. The canals may be closed once a year for effecting the necessary repairs to them on one month's notice of the intention so to close them being given; but in the event of any sudden emergency, the canals may be closed at any time without prior notice, and no claim in such case by owners of vessels or others for compensation on account of detention shall be entertained.

IRRIGATION.

The 17th January 1893.

No. 11.—Notification.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes, under the provisions of section XI of Act V (B.C) of 1864, to pass the following rules in modification of those now in force in the Calcutta Canals and Tolly's Nala from 1st April 1893:—

I.—Every vessel on entering the Calcutta Canals or Tolly's Nala shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the tolls payable; and in case of any reasonable doubt arising, the Canal Officers at any toll-station shall have authority to measure a vessel notwithstanding that it was measured on entering the canal.

II.—The tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V of 1864 (B L.C.) and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

A.—The product in feet of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the waterline to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

B.—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches; the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth.

C.—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

D.—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore, and Chetla empty for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement.

E.—In the case of steamers the tonnage, as determined by clauses A, B, C, and D, shall be reduced by one-third as an allowance for engine space.

III.—Every vessel entering the canals shall be furnished with a ticket on payment of the prescribed toll. The manjee's name, the date and hour of entry, the maundage of the vessel the cargo it contains, and amount of toll charged, shall be entered in this ticket to identify the vessel on which toll has been paid.

IV.—Every person in charge of a boat, raft, or float, who shall pass in the canal without tendering the toll due, or who shall pass out of the canal without delivering to the toll-keeper the ticket of entrance and paying the rent that be due, shall be liable to be detained and punished according to section 10 of Act V of 1864.

V.—This ticket may be demanded and inspected by any Canal Officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose.

VI.—Every person in charge of boats entering the Calcutta Canals from the eastward must tender his toll ticket to the officer at Dhappa and Panspotta pass-stations to have it examined, stamped, and signed; and for those entering from the westward, must deliver up the toll tickets at the above pass-stations and receive in lieu a pass, which pass must be delivered to the toll-keeper at entrance of canals. Every such person must also pay all dues, or be liable to be detained and dealt with according to section 10 of Act V of 1864.

VII.—Every person in charge of a boat found in the canals (westward of the pass-station) with toll tickets unstamped or unsigned by a pass-station-keeper will be detained and treated as having no toll ticket under section 10 of Act V of 1864.

VIII.—The manjee or owner of every vessel not having a ticket on board and producible on demand shall be liable to the provisions of section 10 of the Canals Act.

IX.—Duplicates of lost tickets, of which the numbers and date of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the Collector on further payment of a sum equal to the original amount of toll.

X.—During the detention of any vessel under section 9 of these rules, or under any other provision of the Act, the duty of Canal Officers will be to see that the vessel or its cargo are not clandestinely removed; but they are in no way responsible for its safety, for which the manjee, owner, or agent must make their own arrangements.

XI.—The purchaser of a vessel sold under these rules, and under the Act, will have the option of taking it out of the canal on the day of purchase, or of taking out a fresh toll ticket at the rate fixed by the Schedule of Tolls in force for the time being.

XII.—No boat engaged by any officer of Government, whether civil or military, shall be exempt from toll, on the ground that the officer is travelling on public duty. The only exception of this rule shall be in the case of vessels specially engaged in the conveyance of troops on military duty.

XIII.—All vessels the bonâ fide property of Government, or employed on works connected with the maintenance or improvement of the canals, and duly certified as such, shall be exempted from these tolls and charges. No other vessels whatever shall be exempted.

XIV.—Every vessel, raft, or float, which has paid toll, shall be allowed three days for passing through Circular Canals, and two days for Tolly's Nala between Gurreah and Kidderpore, and three days for Soorahs outside Dhappa Lock, the days of entering and of leaving being both included. In addition to these periods, they may, without further payment, remain in the canals for the further undermentioned periods, that is to say—

Circular Canal boats.—One day for every hundred maunds up to three hundred maunds of measurement, and one day for every two hundred maunds above three hundred maunds.

Tolly's Nala boats.—Two days for first hundred maunds, and one day for every hundred maunds above first hundred maunds.

Soorahs outside Dhappa Lock.—Same as for Tolly's Nala.

Floats in either channels.—Two days for any number of timbers not exceeding fifty, and one day for every additional fifty.

Rafts in either channels.—Two days for any number of bamboos not exceeding five hundred, and one day for every additional five hundred.

XV.—Every vessel, raft, or float remaining in any part of the aforesaid canals longer than the period allowed under the foregoing rules shall, for each day in excess of such period, be charged demurrage equal to one-half of the toll; and every vessel remaining more than thirty days in either of the canals shall, for each day in excess of thirty days, be charged demurrage equal to the full rate of toll, provided that in no case the demurrage charged shall exceed Rs. 5 per diem.

XVI.—Any vessel remaining in the canal more than two months without authority from the Supervisor shall be summarily removed.

XVII.—Boats requiring repairs shall be allowed to enter Dhappa Docks and remain there for a maximum period of thirty days, during which they will be charged at the rate of one-sixth part of the demurrage chargeable under Rule XV. Any boat remaining in the docks longer than thirty days without the special permission of the Supervisor shall pay demurrage at the full rate for such excess period.

XVIII.—No vessel shall be docked for repairs on the bank of the Calcutta Canal or of Tolly's Nala.

XIX.—Wherever mooring posts may have been put up by the Supervisor, vessels shall be made fast by the head and stern along the banks to such posts, and shall not be moored in any other manner.

XX.—The Supervisor may by notification prohibit the dropping of anchors or the putting up of bamboos or luggees in any part of the canals or on the banks; and in such parts no anchors shall be dropped, or luggees put up, under a penalty of fifty rupees, and of a fine not exceeding four rupees a day for continued disobedience of an order for removal issued by the Supervisor.

XXI.—Boats whilst loading or unloading in the canals will be allowed to use ladders; but the ladders must be gradually taken in as the water rises.

XXII.—As the water falls, the head and stern ropes must be loosened, and boats gradually pushed towards the centre of the canal: when the flood comes in, these two ropes must be gradually pulled in, and the boat kept as close to the bank as possible.

XXIII.—Only one boat shall be allowed to make fast along and in line with the canal banks, and no boat shall be made fast or be placed outside of boats so secured. No boat or raft shall be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other boats or obstruct the passage of other boats.

XXIV.—Boats passing through the canals shall keep in separate lines, empty boats keeping close to the bank and those that are laden in the centre.

XXV.—Hackeries, carts, bullocks, &c., using the canal roads shall, when stationary, be ranged on the side of the road farthest from the canal bank.

XXVI.—In portions of the canals where only one towing-path exists, vessels shall moor on the off side, and the towing-path side shall always be kept clear.

XXVII.—No persons shall place obstructions on the canal banks, roads, drains, or bridges (when such are on canal land), so as to impede a free passage along them or cause injury to them, or shall commit a nuisance, or deposit filth of any sort on the banks or in the canals.

XXVIII.—Any vessel, vehicle, or any other thing that may cause an obstruction to navigation, or to the banks, roads, drains, and bridges, or injury to the same, will be liable to be immediately removed and detained till all expenses incurred on account of removal, demands, and fines are paid. If a charge be not paid within ten days from date of detention, the said vessel, vehicle, or other thing will be sold to defray expenses.

XXIX.—"Whoever personally or by his or her servant infringes the provisions of any of the paragraphs 18, 19, and 20 to 27, both inclusive, of the foregoing rules, shall be liable, under section II, Act V of 1864 (B C.). to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50 for any one such infringement, or to a fine not exceeding Rs. 5 a day for a continued infringement."

Vide Notification No. 22, dated 16th January 1882, published in the Calcutta Gazette of 18th January 1882, page 60.

XXX.—At the instance of the Collector of Tolls, any Magistrate who imposes a fine under section 11 or 16 of the Act may award any portion of such fine to the informer.

XXXI.—Any person who wilfully or negligently allows a vessel to sink in the canals shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

XXXII.—In every case of wreck caused by negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor and his subordinates will give every assistance in removing the same.

XXXIII.—A notice shall be affixed on such wreck when recovered, calling on those concerned to pay to the Collector all toll which may be due, or fine which may have been adjudged, as well as the expenses incurred in the recovery or removal of the wreck; and intimating that, if the sum be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the boat and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold, the proceeds of the sale being dealt with as directed in section 9 of the Act.

XXXIV.—Every Canal Officer is authorized to remove any vessel, anchor, pole, or other thing which he may find in a position which is in contravention of these rules, and to deal with it in such a manner as may be necessary to give effect to the rules.

XXXV.—Whenever any laden vessel is seized by a Canal Officer, it shall be the duty of the Supervisor to give immediate notice of the same to the owner or his agent, requiring the removal of the cargo without delay, and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the same.

XXXVI.—If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boat seized under the Canals Act, he shall notify the seizure by advertisement in his office, and in one or more of the Calcutta newspapers or advertisement papers. Such notice shall call upon the owner to cause the immediate removal of the cargo, and to pay any necessary expenses incurred in providing for its proper custody and storage.

XXXVII.—The Supervisor may incur whatever expense he may think necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo of any vessel seized under the Canals Act; and if the cargo be not removed within ten days from the date of seizure, he may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, after giving ten days' notice of the same by advertisement in one or more Calcutta newspapers or advertisement papers and affixed in his office.

XXXVIII.—The money realized at such a sale shall be applied first to defray any expenditure that may have been incurred by the Supervisor on account of the cargo sold, and the balance, if any, shall be held in deposit to be paid to the owner of the said cargo on his applying for the same.
